Worked on Shady Side, Costello Tells Probers

Says Income Legitimate;
Quit Gambling Racket

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Dapper Frank Costello admitted yesterday that he once operated on the shady side of the law as a bookmaker and slot machine owner but said his present income is derived from several legitimate "investments."

The New York mystery man glibly told Senate crime investigators of his past operations and then advised them to stop thinking about laws to ban the interstate transmission of racing information as a blow against gambling.

"There is no law you can pass that will curb gambling," the nattily dressed witness confided. "If a man wants to gamble, he can find some sort of trick. There's always an angle to skin the cat."

Costello laughed off attempts by a Senate Commerce Subcommittee to label him the mastermind of the underworld, but readily acknowledged that he once

Costello swore that he got out of the slot machine racket "five or six years ago" and no longer is interested in New York bookmaking. But he said he once put "500 or 600" illegal slot machines in Louisiana, upon invitation.

IRONTON, Ohio—(AP)—The Federal Government yesterday offered 132 slot machines for sale. They were seized from Dustin E. Corn, Manager of the Colonial Inn Restaurant, Inc., to satisfy a Federal income tax lien of $280,946.

violated the law by bookmaking and running slot machines in New York and Louisiana.

He denied he ever paid "protection." But later, under questioning, he said, "I don't believe you can operate unless you get the green light somewhere."

Speaking in a low, husky voice and with his attorney, George Wolf, at his side, Costello said he now is a strictly legitimate investor in real estate, Texas oil leases and an unnamed Louisiana night club.

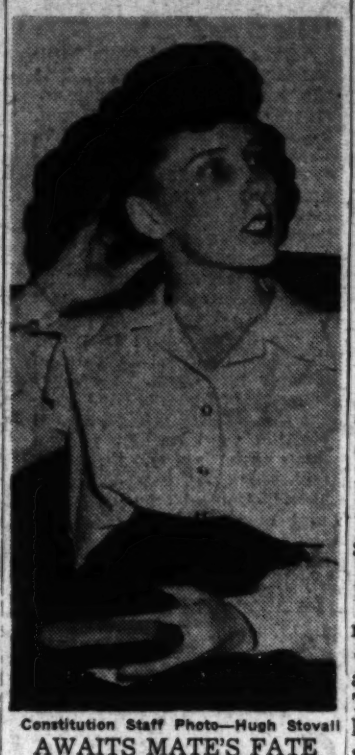

He did say that he also owns a gambling casino, but declined to say where on constitutional grounds. Anyway, he said, it does no harm, baseball or basketball betting—just "roulette wheel and dice." Gambling is legal in some areas.

EXECUTION AT 11 A. M.

Carrigan To Die For Murder Today

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

John Patrick Carrigan is scheduled to die at 11 a. m. today.

He will die at the hands of the People of Georgia... for the crime of murder.

W. E. Wallace, the State's warden of electrocutions, and two named Tattall Prison guards will simultaneously pull three switches—and none will know which switch actually sent the death current coursing into the prisoner's veins.

No more does anyone know at which moment in his life the jaunty debonaire Carrigan began the trip which ends today.

He dies a murderer in an ancient rite of retribution—his life for the life of Mrs. Beatrice Samples. He also dies a robber, an automobile thief, a petty burglar.

But with him dies the four-year-old little Athens kid who cried with loneliness when his mother died, the six-year-old who was sick with bewilderment and fear when his father died, the 14-year-old who ran away from a Washington, Ga., orphanage. With him dies a cocky, scared teen-ager pilfering his first parked car, the young Coast Guardsman who lied about his age to get into the service.

His death is the death of a handsome, weak-faced young man who was loved by many women and faithful to none. His death is the death of all hopes for one woman, thin, big-eyed Dorothy Carrigan who sits on the front porch of an Alexander Street house, crying reading the Bible and remembering the time he said brokenly: "I can't marry you, Dottie. I'm not good enough."

With his death the State Pardon and Parole Board's file on him is useless. The FBI record is inactivated. But it is all there for the student of humanity pondering the double riddle: "Why did John Patrick Carrigan kill? Why did John Patrick Carrigan die?"

"Capital punishment is said to serve the purpose of deterring others," said Edward L. Everett, Chairman of the Pardon and Parole Board, sighing deeply. "I don't know that this is so but Carrigan's life must have a lesson of some kind for parents and children."

The FBI record is terse but it adds up to something. In 1942 he was arrested for larceny from a house. In 1943 for investigation of larceny from an automobile and later for a traffic violation. In 1944 he became John K. Valor.

"How he loved that name!" remarked Mrs. Carrigan. "It sounded glamorous to him... I think he made it up. But he married me under his real name."

In 1944 he was arrested for breaking and entering an automobile, in 1945 for larceny of an automobile, in 1947 for robbery and then for larceny of another automobile, assault and battery and finally in 1949 for murder.

With him today will be but one friend, a man he met in jail—County Chaplain Bill Allison. "Preacher Bill" will read him a few passages of Scripture, pray with him and accompany him into the electrocution chamber. With-

M'Carthy Says Editor Called Diplomat Red

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Sen. McCarthy, Republican, Wisconsin, said yesterday that Louis F. Budenz has branded State Department Official Haldore Hanson an "active" Communist. Hanson replied that any man who called him a Communist under oath is a "perjurer."

McCarthy demanded Hanson's immediate suspension from duty in a fiery Senate speech in which he also hurled new charges of Communism and sex perversion at two unnamed officials of the State Department's "Voice of America" Service.

He referred to secret testimony on Hanson which Budenz allegedly gave to Senate Communist investigators Tuesday. The investigators, however, called McCarthy's statement "not accurate."

Hanson, in a telegram to Chairman Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, of the Foreign Relations subcommittee investigating McCarthy's charges, promptly denied the Budenz accusation.

"If any witness has said under oath that I am a Communist, that man is a perjurer," Hanson said in a telegram released by the State Department. Hanson asked Tydings to let him examine a transcript of Budenz's secret testimony "in order that I may defend myself." He told Tydings he would then request an opportunity to confront Budenz "face to face before your subcommittee."

McCarthy's version of what Budenz, ex-Communist editor, said about Hanson was termed "not accurate" by Sen. McMahon, Democrat, Connecticut, on behalf of all five members of the subcommittee.

Budenz was recalled for questioning by the subcommittee behind closed doors Tuesday. McCarthy, who was not present at that hearing, later said Budenz had named a "very high official" of the State Department as a Communist.

He interrupted Senate debate on foreign aid legislation yesterday to name Hanson as the man whom Budenz allegedly called "an active member of the Communist Party."

Hanson, now engaged in advance planning work for President Truman's "point four" program of aid to backward countries, previously had been branded a "pro-Communist" by McCarthy. But he denied the charge under oath before the subcommittee, asserting that he had no sympathy for communism and that he had never had any Red ties, whatever.

McCarthy's earlier charges were based largely on a book about the Chinese civil war which Hanson wrote after several years of service as a newspaperman in China.

Subcommittee Chairman Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, refused to confirm or deny McCarthy's version of Budenz' secret testimony.

After confronting the investigators with a flat contradiction in sworn testimony of two witnesses—a situation that could lead to perjury charges against someone—Browder left himself open to a possible contempt citation.

He refused to answer questions of Sen. Hickenlooper, Republican, Iowa, about his associations with various persons, on the grounds that his answers might be used in a "smear campaign."

Of Recurring Rumor

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, retired, of Marietta, has been elected Chairman of the Board of Directors and Executive Officer of the Continental Can Company, one of the largest concerns of its kind in the world, according to an AP dispatch from New York. Main offices of this Company are in New York City.

Gen. Clay, formerly Commander of the United States Forces in Western Germany, was recently in Atlanta to attend a celebration in honor of the publication of his book, "Decision in Germany." While in Germany, he directed the Allied defense in the "cold war."

The feature of this operation was in suggestion of the air-lift to break Russia's blockade of Berlin.

Upon his return to the United States, Gen. Clay, after his retirement from active service, became President of the Ecusta Paper Company. This concern, operating in North Carolina, manufactures cigarette paper. Gen. Clay resigned this position some months ago and has since been living in Asheville, North Carolina.

In his new position, Gen. Clay succeeds Carl C. Conway, who has served as Chairman of the Board of Continental Can Company since 1930.

Red Korea Flier Flees

SEOUL, Korea—(UP)—A "Russian-made" single engine fighter, flown by a deserting North Korean Air Force lieutenant, landed at Chinhae airport today. The pilot was identified only as Lt. Pak, 24-year-old North Korean.

Rumors persist that a "dark-horse" candidate will qualify tomorrow to oppose Sen. George, as Rep. C. O. "Fat" Baker opens the 1950 gubernatorial speaking campaign in Macon tonight.

Meanwhile, one county, thinking its County Democratic Committee could hold over until 1952, was informed every county must elect Committee members this year—or the State Democratic Chairman will appoint some.

These developments highlight Georgia's political picture today, on the eve of tomorrow's noon deadline for candidates to qualify for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Congress, Statehouse office, Legislature, Superior Court Judge and Solicitor, and for county office in many counties.

A race for State Labor Commissioner.

Showers Due, More Heat, Too

Thundershowers may come your way today, according to the local weatherman.

Scattered showers are to be the order of the day, today and tomorrow, he says, with the temperature continuing summish. Low for both days is expected to be around 60. The high reading is expected to be 84 degrees. Thundershowers should follow the heat of the afternoon, he predicted.

Yesterday, with just a trace of rain reported to bring the deficiency for the month to 2.69 inches, had extreme readings of 55 and 83.

Tito Courts Neighbors, Hits Red Bloc

Proposes Good-Will Policy in Balkans

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia—(UP)—Marshal Tito has proposed to bury the hatchet with his non-Communist neighbors and create a Balkan "good neighbor" policy for Yugoslavia, Greece, Italy and Austria. He intends to restore full relations with Greece at once, he said yesterday.

He denounced the Russian-bloc countries for "meddling in the grossest manner" in Yugoslav affairs, though he said he hoped for a return some day of "at least tolerable normal relations" with them.

Tito, who for nearly two years has defied the Kremlin's attempt to dictate to him and make him subservient to Russian interests, told the Yugoslav Parliament he would:

1. Re-establish full normal diplomatic relations with non-Communist Greece at once and name a new Yugoslav minister to Athens soon.
2. Strive for improvement of all kinds of relations with Italy and for settlement of such troublesome questions as the future of Trieste.
3. Continue efforts for "increasingly normalizing" relations with Austria to consolidate good neighborly relations.
4. Maintain strict adherence to Communist principles as Yugoslavia interprets them.
5. Welcome economic and political co-operation with all countries which respect Yugoslavia's "full equality and independence" and collaborate fully with the United Nations.
6. Continue to resist the "grossest meddling" of the communist nations—the Russian bloc—which boycotted him in June, 1948.

Tito's Greek Hookup Applauded by U. S.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The U. S. yesterday intensified its cold war counter-offensive against Russia and Soviet satellites by praising Tito, denouncing Poland, and prodding Hungary, Romania, and Bulgaria.

Marshal Tito, Yugoslav leader who has rebelled against the Kremlin, was lauded for re-establishing diplomatic relations with Greece, where the "Truman doctrine" against Communism was initiated.

The U. S. in a formal statement, accused Poland of following the Soviet pattern in withdrawing from the United Nations food and agricultural organization.

Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria were called upon to live up to their peace treaty pledges and meet U. S. charges they had been grossly violated through widespread persecutions of political leaders and churchmen.

Frenchmen Consider Flush Deck Carriers Boot for Atom Chief

PARIS—(UP)—Members of Parliament said last night the cabinet is considering the advisability of dismissing Frederic Joliot-Curie, Communist chief of France's atomic energy program.

A formal cabinet decision may be announced within a few days, it was said.

Joliot-Curie has said that, though he is a Communist, he would consider it an act of treason to turn over any atomic secrets to any foreign country.

But he also said no "true progressive scientist" would "donate any of his scientific knowledge for the purpose of making war against the Soviet Union."

Flush Deck Carriers Needed—Sherman

WASHINGTON—(P)—Admiral Forrest Sherman said yesterday it will be necessary "in the long run" to build large flush deck aircraft carriers, possibly of the type of the abandoned United States.

The Chief of Naval Operations, in response to questions by members of the House Armed Services Committee, said this will be necessary because of the increasing weight and speed of jet planes.

Construction of the United States, a giant flush-deck carrier which had reached the hull-laying stage, was stopped by order of Secretary of Defense Johnson shortly after he took office a year ago.

Outpost Chiefs Review Secrets Of Air Force

CAMP MACKALL, N. C.—(UP)

Top U. S. Air Force officers from "cold war" outposts all over the world have just completed a private review of secret, overall Air Force plans, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air chief of staff, disclosed yesterday.

The top brass of the flying service met for two and a half days at Ramey Air Base, Puerto Rico, to avoid "interruptions" such as they might have had at a Washington session, Vandenberg said.

The air chief came here to watch part of the "exercise swimmer" games which get underway today with an attack by 4,000 paratroopers on an abandoned air field.

Vandenberg said the Puerto Rican meeting gave the air force chiefs a chance to discuss the air force's strategic situation in the light of recent cold war developments unfavorable to the United States. They were summoned to the Caribbean Isle from Japan, Alaska, Germany and England as well as the United States.

Red Navy Display Slated in Baltic

AUGSBURG, Germany—(UP)—Russia has broadcast an announcement that the biggest naval exercise since 1945 will be held in the Baltic May Day, which is Monday, as an answer to the "Lepaya attack," as it was reported last night.

The Russians have termed the alleged flight of an American plane over the Baltic the Lepaya attack.

A German radio expert said that he monitored the broadcast, beamed for internal Russian consumption, from the Leningrad radio.

Church Group Asks Ban on Rights Plan

ALTOONA, Pa.—(AP)—The American Council of Christian Churches yesterday passed a resolution calling upon President Truman to abandon his civil-rights program.

The resolution declared:

"The contemplated use of Federal police power in this field has stimulated serious tensions and sectional divisions, thus supporting Communist claims of race tensions and discrimination in the U. S. A."

The American Council of Christian Churches believes that in reality the problem is basically spiritual and one of human relations for which the religious, educational and moral forces upon which freedom ultimately rests are responsible.

Redless UN Proposed By Hoover Would Abandon Present Agency, Rally Free Allies

NEW YORK—(AP)—Herbert Hoover called last night for scrapping of the present United Nations organization and the setting up of a new one with the Communist countries shut out.

The former President said the need is great for a dynamic "new united front" against "creeping Red imperialism."

This country, Hoover declared, is becoming "more and more isolated as the sole contender in this cold war," and is "steadily losing ground to Russia and her Allies."

"The United States," Hoover said, "needs to know who are with us and whom we can depend on." Hoover's address was delivered to the American Newspaper Publishers Association at a bureau of advertising banquet ending the ANPA annual convention in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

"I suggest," said the only living ex-president, "that the United Nations should be reorganized without the Communist nations in it."

"If that is impractical, then a definite new united front should be organized of those peoples who disavow Communism, who stand for morals and religions, and who love freedom."

"If the free nations join together, they have many potent moral, spiritual and even economic weapons at their disposal."

"They would unlikely ever need such weapons."

"Such a phalanx of free nations could come far nearer to making a workable relation with the other half of the two worlds than the United States can ever do alone."

"By collective action we could much more effectively keep their (the Communists') conspiring agents and bribers out of all our borders and out of our laboratories."

Hoover said the Russians, since the days of Peter the Great, have grabbed territory "like a burglar going down a hall."

"More and more," he said, "the burdens of defending free men and nations are being thrust on the American people, who are only one-sixth of the population of the globe."

"We are becoming more and more isolated as the sole contender in this cold war."

"We are steadily losing ground because the non-Communist states are being picked off one by one or are compromising with the Communists."

Hoover spoke tartly of Marshall Plan "subsidies to beguile peoples to recede from internal Communism."

And of the North Atlantic Pact he commented: "In persistence to an old habit, we are taking up the check."

Chest X-Rays Given 14,000,000 Persons in '49

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Some 14,000,000 chest X-ray photographs were taken in 1949 in an accelerated campaign to detect and control tuberculosis, the annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis Association was told yesterday.

The figure compares with the less than 1,000,000 (exclusive of Armed Services) chest pictures taken five years ago, indicating the average American is becoming more inclined to have his lungs checked for evidence of the "white plague."

The report on X-ray pictures was made by Dr. Russell I. Pierce, chief of the Radiology Branch, Division of Tuberculosis, U. S. Public Health Service. He said the 14,000,000 small-film pictures were taken in various "screening" surveys and included 1,900,000 films taken in community-wide surveys. Standard-sized films, taken by private physicians, hospitals or clinics, or "retakes," were not included.

Dr. Pierce said a diagnosis of tuberculosis had been confirmed in about one out of 10 instances of suspected victims and twice as many active cases were found among men as among women.

CITE SOUTH'S ADVANTAGES

GE Officials Point Out Opportunities for Youth

Boundless opportunity exists for Georgia youth in the dynamic industrial expansion of the South, 10 of the nation's top executives agree.

In Atlanta for a Board of Directors' meeting of the General Electric Company, the executives discounted the belief that opportunity exists only for a few people.

'GOODS' FOUND ON SLOW CHEWER

COLUMBUS, Ohio—(P)—Eugene Henderson, 22, landed in court yesterday because he couldn't chew up a batch of numbers. Lottery slips before his arrest. Pil. James Founde said Henderson stuffed 14 slips into his mouth. They were badly chewed but still legible when recovered.

House Tax Men Vote to Retain Nightclub Levy

WASHINGTON—(INS)—House tax writers voted yesterday to retain the existing 20 percent tax on patrons of cabarets, roof gardens and other entertainment spots. The tax-originating Ways and Means Committee voted to eliminate a 10 percent manufacturers' excise tax on electric commercial amusement devices, the $10 annual tax on bowling alleys, pool and billiard tables operated without charge by non-profit organizations. It agreed to retain the $20 tax on commercial bowling alleys, billiard and pool tables, the 20 percent levy on club dues and initiation fees, the $10 annual tax on amusement devices above the one cent level, the $100 annual tax on gambling devices that pay off in merchandise, the 20 percent levy on leased safety deposit boxes.

hope to continue a section where capital ventured will be assured of a fair return as profit."

Donald K. David, Dean of the Graduate Business School at Harvard University, preceded the governor and declared: "It is time to offer the world a simple, understandable summary of those things we are for and to quit emphasizing those things we are against."

Both were introduced by Woodruff who proposed a toast to Georgia's governor and paid tribute to him and the Georgia Power Company.

The directors afterwards came by Southern Railway train to Atlanta where they were guests at 6:30 o'clock last night at a dinner at the Capital City Club, with the Georgia Power Company as host.

Following the director's meeting at 9:30 a. m. today Atlanta officials will entertain at a luncheon at the Piedmont Driving Club.

The GE visitors will leave tonight for Birmingham after a private function being planned in their honor. Directors here for the Board meeting besides Wilson, Reed, David and Woodruff, are: Charles Francis Adams, Board Chairman of State Street Trust Company of Boston; S. Sloan Colt, President of Bankers Trust Company, New York; Ralph J. Cordner, GE Vice President and Director in four associated companies; G. Peabody Gardner, Director, American Telephone and Telegraph and 12 other corporations; John Holmes, President of Swift and Company; George G. Montgomery, Vice President, Castle and Cooke, Ltd.; Robert T. Stevens, Board Chairman, J. P. Stevens and Company, Inc.; Sidney J. Weinberg, senior partner, Goldman Sachs and Company, investment brokers; George H. Love, President of Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, and Neil H. McElroy, President, Procter and Gamble. Another Director, Charles D. Dickey, Vice President, J. P. Morgan and Company, was unable to attend due to illness.

TOUR NOTES—New York Banker S. Sloan Colt discounting his duties as Metropolitan Opera Association treasurer as being responsible for the Atlanta opera season success. Shipping Executive George G. Montgomery branding Georgia's weather as even better than that of his native California; Harvard Business School Dean Donald K. David promising to make a special trip later to visit the University's Alumni Association in Atlanta; Gov. Herman Tammidge admitting it was his first visit to Lake Mead being countered by a director's "it's nice for strangers to show a Governor his own State."

GE Board Chairman, Philip D. Reed prevailing upon Robert Griffin, Negro brunswick stew cook, for a pot sample; Textile manufacturer Robert T. Stevens boosting the South from his first hand experience with mills here. Georgia Power Engineer W. P. Hammond telling of construction progress on $22,000,000 Plant Yates. Boston Banker Charles Francis Adams reveling in the mountain serenity but doubting its usefulness. Southern Railway Executive Herb Bonarant affably reminding guests of train schedule to Atlanta.

in 15 minutes from the time of the last prayer, Dr. J. D. McArthur, the prison physician, will pronounce him dead.

What will happen to his body is still not known. "I'd like to bury him in Athens by his mother. Or here beside our baby," said Mrs. Carrigan. "But when there's not money enough for the living... how can you raise $250 to bury the dead?"

Officials said Carrigan would probably be buried in an unmarked grave on prison property.

Death Sentence Commuted to Life

Thomas Williams, Savannah Negro, was saved from the electric chair when the State Parole Board commuted his sentence to life imprisonment yesterday. At the same time, the Board declined to commute the death sentence of Robert Frank Bryan, Savannah Negro convicted of killing Nicholas Pahnno, white Savannah tavern operator. Williams was convicted of slaying Herman Dunson, another Negro.

Below is a summary of the G. E. officials' personal opinions on opportunity:

"There's no lack of opportunity whether a boy graduates from college or follows some less educationally demanding career," stated Philip D. Reed, of Rye, N. Y., Chairman of GE Board of Directors and President of the International Chamber of Commerce.

GE President Charles E. Wilson, of Scarsdale, N. Y., who began as $3 a week delivery boy, thinks "opportunities are greater now than they ever were if we continue to operate our American system, which is primarily responsible for us all."

"Plenty of opportunity, is there any field in America which lacks it?" replied Charles Francis Adams, of Concord, Mass., Board Chairman, State Street Trust Company of Boston, and U. S. Secretary of Navy from 1929 to 1933 under President Hoover.

"Greatest opportunity lies in the opportunity America offers men to amount to something by their own initiative," was the comment from Donald D. David, Dean of Graduate Business School of Harvard University.

A man who rose from mail boy to the President's chair in the giant Procter & Gamble Company, Neil H. McElroy, of Cincinnati, Ohio, feels "only unfortunate deterrent to opportunity is heavy taxation which may kill initiative."

George Love, of Pittsburgh, President of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, said "indefinitely with matching drive will make opportunity abound in any line, especially in coal where competition is keen."

A man who rose to senior partner in the investment broker firm for which he started as assistant porter, Sidney J. Weinberg, of New York, partner in Goldman Sachs and Company, feels "character, hard work and time for God" are the ingredients needed for success anytime.

A shipping magnate with sugar interests in Hawaii, George G. Montgomery, of San Francisco, Cal., Vice President of Castle and Cooke, Ltd., believes "controls and restrictions make problems different now, but the future holds ample opportunity for any individual."

"Youngsters have opportunity to go farther faster than ever before," declared Robert T. Stevens, of Plainfield, N. J., President of J. P. Stevens and Company, Inc., textile manufacturers.

S. Sloan Colt, of New York City, President, Bankers Trust Company, thinks "self-initiative is key to personal opportunity. From a banking standpoint the South has already arrived."

AUNT HET

Sympathy is like a fire; it has to have fresh fuel to keep it going. My gall bladder is such an old story that Pa can't even act interested any more.

gro. Chairman Edward Everett and Mrs. Rebecca Rainey voted to commute the sentence, while Member Eugene Wilburn dissented.

Third Wife at 99

BUENOS AIRES—(P)—Manuel Rodriguez, 99, took his third wife Wednesday. The old-time Indian fighter married Maria Luisa Zapata, 74. They have been friends for 26 years.

Cork Company Plans Expansion

MACON—(P)—An addition to the fabrication department and warehouse at Armstrong Cork Company plant here is being constructed at a cost estimated at $175,000.

The new structure, which will run 100 feet in length and include 35,600 square feet, is expected to be completed in July, E. A. Worm, plant manager, said yesterday.

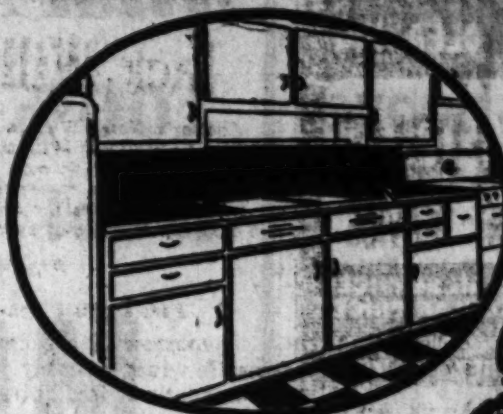

Cost will take in necessary changes to the original building and to service utilities, such as gas and water lines. It will boost the total length of the modern plant, situated at South Payne Road and Broadway, to 1,350 feet. It is a 30-foot high, one-story structure.

The addition was reported due to rapid growth in business at the plant. Although the plant is only two years old, it has made "extremely rapid strides," Worm said.

IDEAL LEGISLATOR

Re-elect Men of Loyalty.

Jack Williams Advises

(Editor's Note: What kind of person would make Georgia an "Ideal Legislator?" With the entries in this Summer's races closing tomorrow at noon in most counties, The Constitution publishes the third in a series of articles today giving the characteristics experienced lawmakers think an "Ideal Legislator" should possess. Measure your candidates with this series.)

By JACK WILLIAMS, SR.
Of Waycross
Former State Senator and Former House Member

Tomorrow is the deadline for candidates to qualify for the General Assembly. It occurs to us that there is at the present time less interest among the candidates for the Legislature than at any period in our recollection.

The general public fails to attach the importance it should to the type of men who should be elected to the Legislature. They should possess, above all, character and loyalty. . . . We believe, also, it is regarded as the highest human virtue. We, of course, mean loyalty in its broadest sense.

In selecting candidates for Congress, it is highly important to select the same representative back from term to term if he has character and ability, since in this way he is enabled to get choice committee appointments.

While representatives to the Legislature do not gain the same advantages from the standpoint of committee appointments, there is a great advantage to returning the same men to the Legislature when they have proven their worthiness.

A quiet reserved man of strong character, sincere purpose, may not develop as big a following his first term as some fast-talker and clever mixer, but the statesmanlike representative who weighs all matters and votes for his community and State's best interests over the years builds up a following like money in the bank, and his colleagues invite his co-authorship on their bills for the purpose of giving them more general support.

To make a good representative it is necessary to realize that no man or group of men has a corner on honesty, intelligence and integrity, and frequently the opposition may introduce a measure that is entitled to your earnest support and all-out effort.

Sometimes a representative in giving the best service and supporting the best interests of his community and State may appear inconsistent. In fact, there are many paradoxes in a representative's actions. To illustrate, once we supported a bill very vigorously on the floor of the Senate and finally when it came to a vote we opposed it because amendment "A" had been placed on it which destroyed its usefulness in correcting an outstanding evil for which it was originally introduced.

Sobriety, Honesty

By WILMER LANIER

Former House Member

Sobriety, honesty, intelligence, sociability, industriousness, inquisitiveness, good health, pride, and sportsmanship are the characteristics and "Ideal Legislator" should possess.

Interest in Others

By MRS. REBECCA RAINEY

Former Member of Senate and House

A "Ideal Legislator" should be very interested in the other members of the General Assembly. If a legislator shows some concern over the interests of other members, they, in turn, will be concerned with the wishes of the legislator. An "Ideal Legislator" will meet and really get to know his or her colleagues in the Senate and House so they can work together for the good of the State.

Along with developing personal friendships for other members so the Legislature can work in harmony, I would want my Legislator to be a constant attendee of the sessions. A lawmaker cannot represent the county or the State if he or she is not present.

To be an effective Representative or Senator, a person must be present when laws are being made and must have the friendship of colleagues in order to pass measures.

Tomorrow: Contrasting pictures painted by J. M. Simmons, of Bainbridge, and E. L. McCravy, of Bazley.

POLITICS

sioner was formally begun yesterday when Johnny Goodwin, who headed the State Patrol under the late Gov. Eugene Talmadge and then shifted into Acting Gov. Thompson's camp, paid an entry fee to run against Incumbent Ben Hulet.

The Thompson headquarters, opened in a 5-room suite at the Ansley Hotel, brought out a former ally of Gov. Herman Talmadge as a campaign manager. Flannery Pope, former Dublin mayor and former head of the State VFW whom Talmadge appointed to the State Veterans' Service Department post, is helping Thompson.

Country Johnston, of Valdosta, qualified as a Congressional candidate in the Eighth District, opposing Incumbent Don Wheeler and Ronald Adams.

Baker will be the first gubernatorial speaker of the season when he speaks tonight at Macon.

Former Acting Gov. Thompson will launch his speaking campaign at Tifton at 3 p. m. tomorrow. Gubernatorial Candidate Pat Avery will open at Rome tomorrow night. Gov. Talmadge and Mrs. J. W. Jenkins will not open their campaigns until May 6.

Efforts have been made in recent weeks to place a candidate in the field against George. Reports last night were that a candidate would qualify tomorrow. However, attempts to learn the identity of any such candidate failed.

There was talk that Brooks County might not have an elec-

MAY 6 DEADLINE FOR REGISTERING

The State Law Department says May 6 is the deadline for registering for this year's election, even though the State law fixing the deadline six months prior to the general election would make it May 7. The reason? May 7 is on a Sunday. So the Law Department said the deadline should be on the preceding Saturday.

tion this year for members of the County Democratic Executive Committee. Present members were elected two years ago, and some contended they were chosen for a four-year period.

Asked for an opinion, B. D. Murphy, Atlanta attorney and member of the Rules Committee of the State Democratic Executive Committee, said State rules require every county to hold an election for County Committee-men this year.

The rules say, "In the event any county fails to elect a County Committee as provided herein, the Chairman of the State Committee is authorized to name a committee for such county to serve for a period of four years."

Murphy said he didn't understand the election of any county committee in 1948, since the committees were supposed to have been chosen in 1946 for a four-year term.

Indications are that several candidates may run for committee positions in Brooks County.

Goodwin, paying his entry fee for the labor post, commented: "I am against using Merit System employees to plaster pictures of myself, or anybody else, on all the trees and telephone poles in Georgia. I am against devoting seven hours a day to politics and one hour a day to work. I am against using a public office for the benefit of a political faction or of special private interests. I am for serving all the people of

Registration facilities will be open from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m. today at the following sites in Fulton County:

Georgia and promoting peace and harmony in the industrial life of the State."

Thompson also disclosed the following would help direct his campaign: Rep. John Greer, of Lanier County; Osgood Williams, Tallapoosa County Ordinary; Former Adj. Gen. Alpha Fowler, of Douglasville; Phil Landrum, of Jasper; Thompson's former executive secretary, Dave Hogan, Macon attorney and former State Sen. R. G. Daniel, of Metter.

In judgeship races yesterday, Rep. Pierre Howard, of DeKalb County, qualified as a candidate for the new post in Stone Mountain Judicial Circuit, and Judge Walter Greer qualified for re-nomination in the Pataula Circuit.

DeKalb Rep. H. O. Hubert, Clarence Vaughn, and Harvey Armistead are running for the Stone Mountain judgeship. James Bonner is seeking the post held by Greer.

Pace Protests Cotton Reserve

WASHINGTON—(P) — Recommendations of the Agriculture Department that a national cotton acreage reserve of up to 700,000 acres be established brought sharp dissent from some farm leaders in the House yesterday.

Chairman Pace, Democrat, Georgia, of a House Agriculture Subcommittee which is studying proposals for changes in laws relating to cotton acreage allotments and marketing quotas, voiced the chief objections.

Pace said there appears to be strong sentiment in the Committee for States to handle their own adjustments with no acreage reserve being kept in Washington "to shift across the nation."

Students Battle Police In Teachers' Pay Rioting

NEW YORK—(UP)—Thousands of rioting high school students laid siege to City Hall yesterday and battled police with knives, stickpins, fists and firecrackers in a wild demonstration for higher teacher pay.

The students fought with whatever weapons they could lay their hands on, tried to break through police barricades and reached the office of Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Police said they believed the demonstrations were inspired by "subversive groups" and O'Dwyer asked the Board of Education to start an immediate investigation to find who started demonstrations and "what influences brought about the disorders."

The students' anger rose to the pitch in this third day of the demonstration.

500 Honor Dr. Sparks At Dinner

More than 500 persons gathered here last night to pay tribute to an Atlanta described as an "educator, organizer, civic leader, Christian gentleman and friend."

The man: Dr. George M. Sparks. The occasion was a testimonial dinner for Dr. Sparks, scheduled to leave his long-time post as head of the Atlanta Division, University of Georgia, to take up his new duties as Assistant Chancellor of the University System.

Dr. Harmon Caldwell, Chancellor of the System, summed up Dr. Sparks in this way:

"He is a man of vision, faith, determination, perseverance and action."

Alumni, faculty and students arranged the dinner for Dr. Sparks under whose direction enrollment has increased from 100 to nearly 10,000 since 1924.

Speaking for alumni, Miss Anna Mulkey said Dr. Sparks was a "constructive genius" for whom former students had deep and abiding affection.

Representing the students, Chack Tucker described the Director's "simplicity and ever readiness to be of help."

For the faculty, V. V. Lavroff said the Atlanta Division's program of service was a "direct reflection of the man who has been its guiding genius."

Prof. H. E. Dennison, head of the Industrial Engineering Department at Georgia Tech and one of the first members of the faculty of the old Georgia Evening School, was toastmaster. Miss Beverly Wolff, student, was soloist. Lloyd E. Baughman and William A. Flor-

Court Asked To Reconsider County Unit Vote Decision

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Supreme Court was urged yesterday to reconsider its recent refusal to strike down Georgia's county unit election system.

The high tribunal on April 17 held Federal Courts have no right to interfere with how a State geographically apportions its voting strength. Justices Douglas and Black dissented.

Two Georgia voters, Benard South and Harold C. Fleming, asked the court to reconsider and reverse its decision. They filed the appeal on which the tribunal acted on April 17.

Their appeal was from a decision by a special three-judge Federal District Court in Atlanta. The special court held the county unit system discriminates against city voters but that Federal Courts may not interfere. The Supreme Court affirmed this decision, without the customary hearing of arguments.

South and Fleming protested that the Supreme Court had not given them an opportunity to present the merits of their case.

"We would pray that the court give the closest attention to the seriousness of the precedent which the decision now standing would establish," their petition for reconsideration stated.

"No decision of this court, we very respectfully but confidently assert, required the action taken on April 17. But if this decision stands then the court will, without argument and without a full presentation of the question, have forged a new precedent which will bind this court and future courts."

Dr. Peale To Be Guest At Autograph Party Here

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, columnist of The Constitution and distinguished author of books on religion and religious psychology, will be the guest of honor at an autograph party today at Rich's.

Dr. Peale will autograph copies of his new book, "The Art of Real Happiness," at the party, which will be held from 3 to 4:30 p. m. in the Magnolia Room on the sixth floor of the store.

His appearance here will be sponsored jointly with Rich's by the National Council of Church Women. Mrs. Peale, the author's wife, is a member of the Board of Directors of The National Council of Church Women.

"The Art of Real Happiness" is a religious version of applied psychology. Each chapter deals with a specific human problem, attempting to guide and help the reader in every-day living. Prentice-Hall is the publisher.

Expressway Strike Ends

Work on the Atlanta expressway will be resumed in full force today. Differences between the MacDougald Construction Company and Operating Engineers Local 821 have been settled.

The strike started several weeks ago after dismissal of an equipment operator. Two other unions joined in the strike, the Plasterers and Cement Finishers Local 148 and the Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Truck Drivers Local 859.

Alex MacDougald, President of the Company, announced after the settlement that the expressway project would be finished in the contracted time.

The work stoppage also involved workers on another MacDougald project, the building of the Georgia Power Company's Plant Yates at Whitesburg.

Mr. Trouble 1st In Derby Preview

By JOHN CHANDLER

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(AP)—Mr. Trouble indicated yesterday that he could be just that a week from Saturday in the Kentucky Derby when he slammed down the Keeneland stretch to beat the favored Oil Capitol in the $27,850 Bluegrass stakes.

Jockey Doug Dodson kept the chestnut son of Mahmoud-Motto off the pace but in good striking distance in the mile and one-eighth event, then turned C. V. Whitney's colt loose at the top of the stretch.

Mr. Trouble, who has been improving steadily in his Derby prep, began pulling away from Oil Capitol near the eighth pole, and scooted under the wire a half to three-fourths of a length ahead of the Oklahoma colt owned by Tom Gray.

Oil Capitol finished three lengths ahead of King Ranch's On The Mark, with Clifford Moores' Hawley another three and one-half lengths back in fourth.

Ten three-year-olds went to the post in the Bluegrass, which has sent Bubbling Over and Shut Out on to cop the Derby. Only Big Ike, in last place, is ineligible for the $100,000 Derby classic at Louisville.

Mr. Trouble, second choice in the wagering, stepped the route in 1:50 2/5 and rewarded his backers with $10.60, $2.80 and $3.00. Oil Capitol, made the choice at 30 cents a dollar by a crowd of around 9,500, returned $2.80 and $2.80, while On The Mark—a surprise starter—brought $5.20 to show.

Oil Capitol, the Winterbook Derby choice until his defeat by Your Host here last week, ran a good race, and was far from disgraced considering the fact that he carried 126 pounds compared with 121 for the winner.

This was the third start, and first victory of the year for Mr. Trouble, who had only so-so success as a two-year-old. He started 10 times last year, and won two races, but no stakes, although he was in the money in several major events.

The victory was worth $20,300 to Whitney, who bred the colt at his farm near here. Mr. Trouble earned $14,825 last year, and until today had picked up only $1,000 in his second to Your Host last week in the Scarlet Purse when that California colt broke the Keeneland track record for seven furlongs.

GRANTLAND RICE

Your Host May Fool 'Em

NEW YORK—(NANA)—Before California's Your Host came to Kentucky there was just one weakness offered by his critics—"he hasn't beaten anything." This is largely true. But he had run pretty smartly with a thing called "the clock," a fact they all threw out.

Even as smart a horseman as Eddie Arcaro couldn't give Your Host much credit for what he had done. "I've been chasing him," Eddie said, "but look what I was riding!"

The main blot against Your Host is that Mervin was the last California horse to win the Derby—25 years ago. That's a lot of time.

The mystery about Your Host isn't his speed or his gameness. It is merely a matter of whether he can keep up that speed for a mile-and-a-quarter. I feel quite certain he could outrun Hill Prince, Middleground or Oil Capitol at a mile-an-eight.

Your Host has more sheer speed than any horse in the race. He is certainly going to the front and I can't see any horse that is going with him. If this should happen, the challenging horse certainly isn't going to finish in the money.

Out in Front I saw Your Host win three or four races in California in exactly the same fashion—rush to a lead of four or five lengths and hold it. As Arcaro says, those chasing him were not too good. But the time was OK.

It is my belief at this point that Your Host has as good a chance to win the Derby as any other entry, including Hill Prince, Middleground or Oil Capitol. He can run a little faster than Olympia and he can last longer, which makes him a pretty tough animal to handle.

Speed is always a factor in any race. Oddly enough, speed is a big factor in a mile-and-a-half or a two-mile race. The horse without it isn't going to win.

Your Host may not have the stamina needed to win at a mile-and-a-quarter, but it is my hunch that too many Eastern owners, trainers and experts at large have underrated him. The main charge against him is that he comes from California. It may be that opposition means more than mere time, but not always. The old clock is still important.

Soft, Rusty Arms This is an old story that has been written the answer. Or part of it. In looking over old records we found that such pitchers as Cy Young, Ed Walsh, Grover Alexander, Walter Johnson and Christy Mathewson were pitching from 350 to 400 or more innings each season. They were working in from 35 to 50 ball games, going all the way most of the time.

There are such things as rest, rust and softness. Modern pitchers finish fewer than half the games they start. Not too many pitchers hurl 10 complete games a year. Their managers yank them about the time they get warmed up. Practically no pitcher today works 300 innings a season—once a soft touch.

But the managers can't afford to let these pitchers lose games through wildness. What they should do is to have pitchers such as Rex Barney, Tommy Byrne and other potential stars work in batting practice, morning practice, night practice—throwing, throwing, throwing at every chance.

They might get sore arms? What of it? A sore arm is better than a wild arm. Modern pitchers have been coddled, softened, spoiled by managers afraid to use them often enough to toughen them up for active duty.

A good pitcher can handle at least 400 innings a year. Most of them today can't handle 200 innings. They are only half pitchers. And every big-league manager knows it.

Florida Tops Auburn, 5-3

AUBURN—Inability to connect in the clutches proved costly to the Auburn Tigers here yesterday as Florida carved out a 5-3 decision to gain an even split in the two-game series.

The Tigers rapped Ash Weismann and Jack Gaines for 11 safeties, while Hill limited the visitors to six hits. But Auburn left 11 runners stranded and failed to cash in on numerous opportunities.

Special to The Constitution

Florida pounced on Hill for four runs in the first frame, but failed to score again until the seventh. Auburn rushed over all three runs in the fifth, sending Weismann to the showers.

Georgia Tech Spring Grid Game Tonight

By JESSE OUTLAR

Throughout five weeks of Spring football drills Georgia Tech coaches have stuck to their theme of a fine offense and slack defense, so it's only natural to suspect that tonight's annual T-game at Grant Field will result in a high-toned touchdown duel.

The Jackets are blessed with as fine a crop of backfield material as you'll find in the SEC, but up front graduation riddled the guard and tackle posts. And, according to Coach Dodd, there's still a big hole there.

You can bet your Derby dollar that Dodd will be the most interested onlooker when they boot the first ball at 8 o'clock, for he hopes to solve several problems during this intra-squad squabble.

Quarterbacks Darrell Crawford and Joe Salome, who'll lead the rival teams, will be under keen observation. This one weak link in a strong backfield chain is causing Bobby's hair to turn a stronger shade of gray.

Line Coach Ray Graves, Ray Ellis and the others will have their eyes glued on the scene of action.

Graves wants to see if Hal Miller, the 225-pound Kingsport tackle, is as tough as the coaches hope. And he'll be looking at Ray Beck, transplanted guard; Mat Lyons, Jack Dance and several more.

A glance at the rosters gives you an idea that Salome's squad may have a slight offensive edge, although coaches say that the two squads are perfectly balanced.

Jimmy Brown, long-pitching Oklahoman, and Robby Robinson offer Salome relief at the signal post.

At the halfback post, there's a host of impressive spring performers such as Harry Wright, Art Ross, Don Booth and Joe Cobb.

But Crawford's team has plenty of ball-carrying power. Veteran Red Patton, Peden Templeton, Roy Thompson and Jack Patterson are a few of the guys who can go.

East Point vs. Ford

East Point Motors, defending champions, and the Ford Motor Company baseball nine will clash in a City League game tonight at 8:15 in South Fulton Park.

PINEHURST, N. C.—(AP)—Seven-time Champion Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page set a scorching five-under-par pace to eliminate Defending Champion Peggy Kirk, 3 and 2, yesterday and lead the way to the North and South Women's golf Tournament semifinals, where she was joined by Mae Murray, Pat O'Sullivan and Helen Siegel.

Today Mrs. Page, the Chapel Hill housewife who won the national title 13 years ago, will meet young Miss Murray, five times Vermont champion from Rutland, who prevailed over Bee McWane, of Birmingham, Ala., 2-up, in their quarter-final match.

Miss O'Sullivan played some of her finest golf to surprise with a 4-and-3 victory over Mrs. Betty Bush, Hammond, Ind., and gain a place opposite Miss Siegel, 5 and 4 winner over Mrs. James D. Platt, Jr., Miami.

Mrs. Page, who last won this 48-year-old tournament in 1945, has played exceptionally well all week, but she was superb as she avenged the 1-up semifinals loss of last year to Miss Kirk. The latter played well enough to win most matches, being even with par for 18 holes, but Mrs. Page was not playing ordinary golf. She never let the tall Ohio girl get ahead of her.

Mrs. Page turned one up with a three under 34.

Miss O'Sullivan, Connecticut champion who has been wintering at near-by Mid Pines, turned two up on Mrs. Bush. The Connecticut girl, longest hitter in the tournament, turned in one under par 36 against Mrs. Bush's 37.

Miss O'Sullivan never let go of the lead, closing out the match on the short 15th.

Miss Murray did not play the sharp golf of her earlier rounds this week, but she had it when she needed it in the stretch against Miss McWane.

Miss Siegel, improved considerably over her early match play 1948, was out in par 37, halving form, never dropped a hole to Mrs. Platt. The Philadelphian, national birdie four and seven and nine runner-up to Grace Lenzyk in with pars.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—Your Host impressed clockers at Churchill Downs yesterday by going a mile in 1:41 breacing. He galloped out a mile and an eighth in 1:55 2-5.

Miller's Homer Beats Bass, 7-3

Grady's Comer Trips Irish, 2-1; Roosevelt, Russell Triumph

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Fred "Moose" Miller, Jr., was so excited over the pinch-hit, three-run homer he clouted to give Murphy a 7-3 victory over Bass and the leadership of the City League yesterday that he broke his glasses before completing the circuit of the bases and couldn't play any more.

Rod Colson's Blue Wave, invading the Murphy diamond, was clinging to a 3-1 advantage when Coach Boots Payne sent in bespectacled Miller to hit for Colvin Heist with two men on in the sixth inning. Miller was in the game only for the pitching of one ball, but he was the game. Miller lashed a mighty wallop over the center-fielder's head and made the circuit, but he stomped third base so hard the impact broke his glasses.

On home he stumbled with what proved to be the winning run, his speckling from one ear as he hit the plate. Payne had to send a pinch-hitter to the field. Miller lashed a mighty wallop over the center-fielder's head and made the circuit, but he stomped third base so hard the impact broke his glasses.

Joe Willingham was again superb on the mound for Murphy, limiting the Wave to five knocks, fanning 11 and walking six. Little Bobby Willis, who flipped a no-hitter his last time out, had the better of the duel until that big blow by Miller, however.

Will, who allowed only two strollers and whiffed seven, was tagged for 11 bows, five of them meshed with an error and walk for that big frame when the Eagles made all their countering. Louis Gary belted a triple and two singles, and Bruce Schubele two singles in the assault. Only Bobby Keel nicked Willingham for two safeties.

Even better hulking was seen on at least three other fronts. Grady's Keith Comer outslugged O'Keefe's Billy Stewart, 2-1, at Glenn Field, and Kenneth Lancaster's ground single in the sixth inning at Grant Park robbed Eddie Webster of a no-hitter as Roosevelt slashed out its first loop victory, a 7-1 decision over Smith.

Charlie Holt was as stingy as Midas on a rainy day as he flung a three-hitter into the teeth of Fulton's usually slugging array to give Russell a 4-3 verdict and the Fulton County League lead. Holt

MURPHY, BASS TRACKMEN VIE FOR LOOP TITLE

Murphy and Bass, two schools that battled for first place in the City League baseball race yesterday, with Murphy winning, 7-3, will meet on the cinder paths at Grady Stadium tonight for the loop's 1950 track championship.

Both have won four meets and lost one. The four-in-one cinder carnival, which will start at 7:30, will also pit Grady against O'Keefe, Smith against Roosevelt, and Brown against North Fulton, the latter a non-league team but one of the city's best.

Greater Atlanta AA league baseball games at 4 p. m. today include West Fulton vs. Marist at Piedmont Park, and Decatur at Marietta.

Newman Edges Griffin On Homer in Ninth, 7-6

Schmidt's Blow Wins for Browns; Don Bessent Hurls Trouper Victory

By JACK JACKSON

PICKETT FIELD, NEWNAN—Manager Joe Schmidt broke up the Georgia-Alabama League season opening ball game here last night in the ninth inning by blasting a 2-1 pitch over the left-centerfield wall for his second successive home run to give Newnan's Griffins a 7-6 victory over the Griffin Tigers before a crowd of 2,100.

Thus the 1949 league champions got off to an auspicious start toward their second straight pennant, and Manager Schmidt won his way into the hearts of local fans, who are pulling for him to win his second flag in his second year here.

Schmidt paled his first homer over the left field fence in the seventh inning, when the Browns rallied to tie up the count at 6-all. Bill Bustle, veteran left-hander, went all the way for Newnan, giving up nine hits and walking five. He walked four of them in the first frame and Griffin contributed hits by George Noga and Don Stoye and an error by Schmidt helped the Tigers to score four runs.

Griffin made it 5-0 for Carlos Lopez, colored pitcher, Puerto Rican hurler, in the second when Stoye singled and Jack Bearden tripled to right center.

Lopez pitched three hitless innings, but the Browns got to him in the fourth when Dave Hooks lugged Bradshaw's single and Stoye's error netted two runs.

Two more were tallied in the fifth on a walk, a single by Hooks, an error and a single by Bill Chelie.

Griffin added another in the top of the sixth as Lopez tangled, was sacrificed to second, took third on a passed ball and scored on Ducky Franson's error.

Schmidt homered, Hooks walked and Bud Heath singled in the seventh to bring the downfall of Lopez. Then Clement Kelsche, another southpaw, walked Chelie, and an error by Noga let Hooks score.

Griffin, which finished last in 1949, looked like a better ball club against Newnan last night. Stoye and Walter Byrd led the hitting with two apiece. Schmidt and Hooks got two each for Newnan.

The Newnan High School band paraded yesterday through town and played last night at the game.

Newnan moves over to Griffin tonight as the entire league switches over for the second night's openers.

Score by innings:
Newnan 000 220 201 7 7 4
Lopez, Kelsche (7) and Walker; Bustle and Bradshaw.

Bessent fanned 12 and was never in serious trouble. Dick Lazicki, his southpaw opponent, yielded only five safeties and recorded eight strikeouts.

Patsy Pescitella drilled two singles and Jim Goff slapped a two-bagger to ease the LaGrange attack.

Score by innings:
LaGrange 000 000 000 2 1 0 0 0 0
Lazicki and Omehe; Bessent and Bragance.

stashed it in the sixth as Poyo beat out a bunt, sped to third on a steal and wild pitch and came home as Catcher Charles Durand's wild peg failed to head off the Cuban at the hot corner.

McCauley's triple and single and Burns' two bingles were O'Keefe's sum total off Comer, who struck out eight. Don Miller banged two of Grady's five knocks off Stewart, one being a double. Stewart fanned five, and both hurlers walked a pair.

Eddie Webster not only hurled that one hitter, but fanned ten and smote a single and two-run homer for Dick Brady's side. Lancaster's lone hit almost was turned into an out when Rightfielder Bob Dawkins whipped the ground ball to first base in time, but the toss was dropped.

Russell rushed across its four runs in the second inning, enough to win despite four and a third innings of runless hurling by Fulton's Richard Bragg. McLean and John Bailey popped a pair of bingles apiece and Bishop belted a triple for Russell.

Bill Campbell's Hapeville only five safeties, but three came in succession with no one out in the final inning to produce the winning marker. Willie Blount, Bobby Peek and David McMurray poked those timely ones. Weaver's triple and single at 1 McMichael's two one times made vanquished Newnan tough.

Lift Curbs or Waive Tax, Property Owners Demand

Ed Hiles, Acting Secretary of the Atlanta Property Owners Association, Inc., yesterday urged City Council to lift rent controls in Atlanta or waive taxes on properties under controls.

Council Monday is scheduled to act on a recommendation by the Ordinance and Legislation Committee that controls be continued. Hiles answered the Committee recommendation point by point, charged Mayor Hartsfield with being inconsistent in his "stand on this question," and asked for lifting of controls or waiver of taxes so that the property owner will not be forced to stand "all the cost of the subsidy."

Hiles' letter set out that a survey made by City Building Inspector Marvin Harper failed to take into account that the units Harper found occupied were rented by persons moving from other units, which they vacated, that it excluded all available units outside the City limits although buildings have been at the ratio of five in the county to one in Atlanta due to availability of moderately priced building sites outside Atlanta, and that labor statistics show there are more dwelling units per family in metropolitan Atlanta now than at any time in history.

"No better example of the unfairness which is created by the application of rent control to only a selected segment of the total rental property can be found than that which is close to the Mayor himself," the letter pointed out. "We have found that Mrs. W. A. Walker, sister-in-law of the Mayor resides in an apartment at 223 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E., which is under rent control. At the same time, Mrs. Walker owns rental property at 738 Parkway Dr., which has been removed from rent control and which is producing

CIO Leads UE In Westinghouse

PITTSBURGH — (UP) — The CIO took a lead over the leftwing United Electrical Workers last night as employees voted in bargaining elections at Westinghouse Electric Corporation plants in 31 cities.

Each union had won bargaining rights at six plants but those won by the CIO-UE had more members than those that stayed in the UE fold.

Employees at Cleveland, Philadelphia, East Springfield, Mass.; Belleville, N. J.; Manor, Pa., and Indianapolis plants voted to join with the newly-chartered CIO union. Workers at plants at Detroit, Johnston and Derry, Pa., the Nuttall Works at Pittsburgh, Trenton, N. J., and Bridgeport, Conn., voted to stick with the UE.

Dixie Industrial Gains Shown in 48-Yr. Survey

By CLARK HOWELL, JR.

Steady industrial gains made in the Southeast since 1899 are reflected in final figures on the 1947 census of Manufacturing by the Bureau of the Census and released through the Atlanta regional office of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The report shows that the South Atlantic region in the 48-year period moved from fifth to fourth place in number of manufacturing establishments, fourth to third place in number of employees, and from fifth to third position in value added by manufacture of products produced.

The analysis also revealed that the South Atlantic, which includes Georgia, Florida, the Carolinas, and Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia, was well above the national average in all divisions of the manufacturing industry.

Only in the category of salaries and wages paid in manufacturing employment did the South Atlantic region remain stationary during the 48-year span.

According to the report, from 1899 to 1947 the number of manufacturing establishments in the South Atlantic section rose from 19,324 to 24,001; the number of employees went from 422,712 to 1,233,495, or an increase of 212 percent; salaries and wages paid went from $153,274,000 to $3,370,875,000, a gain of 2,099 percent, and value added by manufacture rose from $115,000 to $4,942,654,000, a rise of 2,096 percent.

Home Show Here Tomorrow

Atlanta's 1950 Home Show, displaying all the latest gadgets in the way of home conveniences, will open at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Municipal Auditorium.

The Home Builders Association of Atlanta, sponsors for this exhibition, says this year's Home Show will be the most complete thing of its kind ever unveiled in Atlanta. It will display hundreds of products, each product designed to take away some of the traditional drudgery of the housewife.

During the display, Luther B. Stephens, Secretary of the Home Builders of Atlanta, said hundreds of dollars worth of prizes would be given away each day. These prizes include: ranges, lamps, refrigerators, electric clocks, home freezers, complete kitchen sinks and, on the last day of the show, a $1,500 living-room suite. During the display, Stephens said there would be an additional prize—payment of second honeymoon expenses for a fortunate couple.

Admission to the show will be 30 cents. It will be open every day through Sunday, May 7.

Indecision Rules Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Investors' uncertainty prevented any trend from developing among Treasury bonds and issues of minor fractions were thoroughly scrambled Thursday.

Most U. S. Treasury bonds moved steadily at Wednesday's closing levels, although a few issues showed slight gains. Among issues that commercial banks are allowed to purchase, losses for this small group extended to 3/8 of a point.

Investors in rail obligations appeared to be somewhat more active. The latest report of railroad earnings reports offered little help to investors as to how to gauge their holdings. The reports showed gross revenues and net earnings of many roads in March were almost, but not quite, at a level with revenues and income of March, 1949. This was considered somewhat of an achievement since many industries in early March still were suffering from the effects of the coal strike.

Social Security Expansion Seen By Life Official

Congress will probably amend the Social Security Act this year so as to cover self-employed persons and also increase the "earnings test" of that act from $15 to $50 per month, Judd C. Benson, of Cincinnati, President of the National Life Underwriters' Association, yesterday told members of the Atlanta Life Underwriters' Association at a luncheon meeting in the Ansley Hotel.

Under the proposed amendment to the Social Security Act, Benson explained, self-employed persons would get the benefit of social security by paying 2 1/2 percent of their earnings up to $3,000 per year. But he indicated that the later figure may be raised to $3,600 per year.

The present earnings test, Benson explained further, permits persons covered by social security to obtain the benefits of social security and, in addition, earn up to $15 per month on the outside. The proposed amendment, he said, will raise this figure to $50 a month.

Benson warned against the spread of a philosophy of economic security financed by Government and urged life insurance agents to prepare themselves effectively to fight this philosophy.

Charles J. Currie, Atlanta manager for the Mutual Life Insurance Company, introduced Benson. Luther Guest, President of the Atlanta Life Underwriters' Association, was chairman of the meeting.

Bethlehem Common Dividend, 75 Cents

NEW YORK (AP)—Directors of Bethlehem Steel Corporation yesterday increased the dividend on common stock to 75 cents a share, payable June 1 to holders of record May 8. Previous payments have been 60 cents at quarterly intervals since the stock was split 3-for-1 late in 1947.

The Company, second largest steel producer, reported for the first quarter of 1950 net income of $25,572,930 equal to $2.50 a common share.

Bethlehem's earnings compared with $33,129,574 or $3.29 a share in the similar 1949 period, and with $16,385,137 or $1.54 a share in the strike-torn final three months last year.

Prices received by producers for crude pine gum delivered to processing plants during the first quarter of 1950 averaged $19.25 per standard barrel of 420 pounds the USDA reported today.

This compares with the previous week's average of $19.36. The 23 reporting plants received 26,890 standard barrels of gum or 913 barrels per plant as compared with 790 barrels at these plants a week earlier. The average estimated content per barrel was 11.77 gallons of turpentine and 20.78 pounds of rosin. The gum was graded 34 percent WW, 26 percent WG, 16 percent N, 13 percent M, and 11 percent K and below.

Commission at Oak Ridge are being used to train Southern scientists.

The Southern Association of Science and Industry is a non-profit, non-political regional organization founded in 1941. Its headquarters are in Atlanta, with H. McKinley Conway, Jr., as Director.

The new developments which Dr. Scott will report include:

Cotton: New tests for specifying the physical properties of cotton fibers; improved methods of processing cotton in opening, spinning and weaving; improvement of the quality of cotton fabrics by reductions in the number of neps and other imperfections; and improvement of the resistance of cotton fabrics to heat, rotting, light, weather, soiling and penetration by water.

Cottonseed: Improving the storage life of moist cottonseed and improving the nutritional value of cottonseed meal.

Peanuts: Utilization of peanut protein in the manufacture of fibers, adhesives, coatings and tire cord dips; and improvements of the quality of peanut butter.

Sweet potatoes: Manufacture of sweet potato starch; the perfection of sweet potato protein as a stock feed; and the development of specialty food products from sweet potatoes.

Sugar: Separation of aconitic acid, a new chemical for the plastics industry, from sugarcane molasses; utilization of sugarcane wax as a substitute for carnauba wax; and use of ground oyster shell to facilitate the clarification of sugarcane juices.

Southern Pine: Manufacture of pulp and paper; and improvement of the processing of pine gum in central stills.

Citrus Fruits: Development of frozen orange juice concentrates; and development of lemon and orange purees.

In 1938, in Potsdam, Germany, an American doing business there and in near-by Berlin took me along to show me, as he said, the human paving blocks of the path which Hitler took to triumph.

We went to three poor homes, where the effusive greeting given the American eloquently revealed that he had been generous in his care of them for a long span of time. We sat around and had coffee and, since all of them spoke English adequately, if brokenly, we talked.

There was a woman there of about 55 of whom I often have thought. She was passionately pro-Hitler. Yet her concept of the man who was bringing peace and security to Germany. I recall her words.

"The Fuehrer is building a ring of steel around our country," she said. "Never again will our country go to war and be shattered in the fighting and the results of defeat."

Her face was almost rapt as she savored her feeling of security. In the year after the war I tried to find those families. The American was dead of an automobile accident years before. The neighborhood we had visited was a dreary mass of broken stones, bricks and girders. There was no one there to ask, "What has become of . . . ?"

Middle Class When we had ended our visit that day in 1938 the American said to me:

"It was not the war that really destroyed Germany. It was the aftermath of the war, the inflation and the collapse of business. That wiped out the middle class. There is now no middle ground, no conservatism in government here because there is no substantial middle class which occupies the necessary middle ground. If American economy ever goes smash we will have a mass of fearful, disillusioned, mentally sick people. They will go either to the extreme right, with Hitler or Mussolini, or they will go to the far left with the Communists."

"These shabby poor persons we just visited," he said, "were middle class people. I stayed here after the war ended. I have been here ever since. I met them when they were almost beggars. They had been comfortable people, all of them owning small businesses. They lost all they had. They had a desperate time of it. They were close to starvation many times. They had ears which unconsciously were trying to hear the very promises Hitler started making."

Communists In a book on sale for a few months, "The God That Failed," Arthur Koestler, writing of why he became a Communist and why he divorced himself from the party, repeats the story I heard in 1938.

He says it was the economic disaster of the '20s which marked the beginning of Europe's decline. "This disintegration of the middle strata of society started the fatal process of polarization which continues to this day. The pauperized bourgeois became rebels of the Right or Left."

Another one, Louis Fisher, went to Russia as a news correspondent in 1921. Seeing the disintegration of Europe, he saw the Soviets "glorifying" the disinherited, promising security, bread, a house, education and peace."

U. S. A. In America now we are in a state of strife about Communists. One of the ex-Communists, in his zeal to repent after 10 years of devoted service at the Soviet altar, is putting together his list of suspects whom he says are hidden Communists. No matter what their records are, and no matter that there is no evidence, Louis Budenz is charging "concealment."

As editorialists here and elsewhere are quick to point out, this is a two-edged sword. If the now pious anti-Communists who were so piously Communist a short while ago are to be allowed to be accuser, judge and jury, what about them? In other words, it could be argued Mr. Budenz, Whittaker Chambers and others are concealed Communists who are merely seeking to confuse.

We don't think so. But, quite obviously, if we are to have a climate in which everyone who disagrees as to Chiang Kai-shek or who doesn't go along with "Jumping Joe" McCarthy is suspected, then we destroy honest disagreement and the meaning of America. We also destroy the mental stability of the middle-class groups which occupy middle ground and lend their strength to conservative nonradical ideas or proposals.

Climate If America is to become a place where honest disagreement lays one open to being charged with "concealed Communism," then we are not far from the force of Soviet type trials and fear of voicing any opinion against the majority rule. What we must do is make the American climate more healthily American. We cannot do that with a cloud of fear.

We can determine to stand up and be counted against the injustices, the insecurities developed by race hatreds and exploitations; economics which create national instability, and we can bring more and more people into participation in government by voters.

The people must create their government by choosing those who will govern them. If we ever create a climate where the only choice is the Right or Left, we will have destroyed ourselves and our future.

BILLY ROSE

Crack Down on Loose Tongues

Honorable Harry S. Truman
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

It may interest you to know that there's a man in New York who knows exactly how many atom bombs we have, exactly where they're hidden and exactly how they're being guarded. What's more, he is connected in no way with the Atomic Energy Commission, the Army, Navy or any other branch of the government.

With your patience and permission, I'd like to tell you about him.

Not long ago, this man—the editor of a national magazine with more than 15,000,000 readers—went to Washington on routine business. The day he arrived he was invited to a dinner party in Georgetown, and over the post-prandial brandy he got into a bull session with several members of the military and bureaucratic elite. When the subject of the atom bomb came up, a high-ranking official laughed. "Don't worry about our A-bombs," he said, and then, without prodding or prying, he proceeded to tell the editor and the other guests precisely how many bombs we had, where they were stored, and the security measures in force in the area. At the end, the drinky-talky notable smiled as if to say, "You folks didn't know what a bright boy I was, did you?"

Blabbermouths The editor, an old friend of mine, told me this story a couple of days after he got back to New York, and I've been using a lot of barbiturates ever since. He's a zipper-lipped citizen who edits his thoughts as carefully as his copy, and I believe him when he says that Washington is currently a-busting with blabbermouths who, at the drop of a daiquiri, will spit out top secrets with only a preface "This is off the record" to tidy up their consciences.

Fortunately for us, the magazine man is not apt to talk out of school or turn, but it stands to reason that if he can come away from Washington with this kind of information a lot of other people can too—including those who cash their pay checks in the First National Bank of Moscow.

High Time In this day and dilemma, Mr. President, government by gossip can easily mean the end of government by consent, and from where I sit and tremble, it's high time you pressed a few buttons and initiated some big-scale cracking and cracking down. If heads must fall, then let them fall—and if you want to take that literally, it's all right with me, not to mention 150,000,000 other Americans who don't own a bomb shelter or a lead-lined tuxedo.

Respectfully,

Billy Rose.

P. S.—It may further interest you to know that, according to a recent estimate, the per capita consumption of hard liquor in Washington is greater than that of any other town in this country.

ALTAR STAIRS By John Marvin Rast

"And a man shall be as a hiding place from the wind . . . as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." (Isaiah 32:2)

An obscure young Catholic priest has written a book titled "You Can Change the World."

It is causing quite a stir among many inert people, and it should. We are not surprised to learn that some notable person has changed the world—such a one as Pasteur, of whom it is said that every field of modern science is different because he lived.

But we do doubt our ability to make much difference in the thought and conduct of the world.

We need no doubt. This very moment what we do or what we fail to do is changing the world even as a pebble dropped into a pond sends a rippling wave to the farthest shore.

O GOD, WE WOULD see ourselves not in our own strength but with Thy resources aided. Increase our faith in the possibility of Thy achievements through us.

Our Best Means of Retaliation

Russian propaganda broadcasts heard over short-wave receivers here follow, of course, the usual Moscow line that the Soviet is seeking only peace while the United States is a nation of warmongers.

They also show that the Russians are not overlooking any method of propagandizing, though it does seem strange that the limited audience short-wave broadcasts reach would be deemed worthwhile. No doubt our Government is looking into the possibility that the broadcasts may be used to transmit messages, too.

Our means of getting the democratic message across to peoples behind the Iron Curtain rapidly are being curtailed. The satellite Czechoslovak Government only recently ordered the United States Information Service Library at Prague closed. On its last full day of operation, the Library served more than 10,000 persons. That is an indication of the hunger that exists in information-starved countries for factual, uncolored news of the world.

Sooner or later the Kremlin hopes to drive the United States, and perhaps other Western countries as well, completely out of all satellite countries. Then all information between our half and the darkened half of the globe would be funneled through Moscow. It will be unnecessary, then, for Communist-trampled populations to know, beyond an occasional whispered rumor, that any better life exists.

It soon well may reach the point where our only comeback is the Voice of America broadcasts. Russians, and those in the Soviet orbit, are forbidden, sometimes under penalty of death, to listen to the "Voice." But they do. And the news that is heard—straight, unvarnished presentations of events as they have occurred—is passed from one citizen to another in great secrecy.

People with the millstone of totalitarian governments about their necks, with the NKVD and its variations an ever-present reminder of the execution squad and the slave-labor camp, are willing to endure great risks to hear the truth about democratic living. As long as we can keep the spark of liberty alive there we can be assured of a large number of friends in the camp of the enemy. For that reason we ought to lay more and more emphasis upon the Voice of America. It is our most effective means of retaliation.

'Government of Land Instead of Men'

Of all the editorial comment on the county unit system, that of the Route One correspondent to the Times-Courier at El-lis strikes us as the most original, if not the most pointed.

"Georgia has elected more governors and other officers by the acre than by popular vote," says the Route One writer.

"This system is undemocratic because it is government by the land and not by the men. It is immoral because it denies the basic equality of men."

"If democratic government is right, then county unit is wrong. If the Constitution demands equal treatment, county unit government is unconstitutional . . .

"It is all done for politics, not for the good of the State or people."

We don't know anything about this Gilmer County rural editorialist, be it man or woman. But we're leaving this county unit comment with you just the way it's been laid down.

They Like What They See in Georgia

Directors of the General Electric Company arrived in North Georgia yesterday morning, were entertained at Tallulah Falls with an old-fashioned barbecue provided by the Georgia Power Company and in the afternoon moved on to Atlanta, where they were again entertained.

They admired the climate, the dogwood, the violets and Spring in general, which, in the words of a lately popular song, was "busting out all over."

But, for the Georgian interested in his State, the most important feature of the visit was that those directors from companies already doing business in Georgia were loud in their praise of Georgia labor and its productivity and of the general satisfaction they had found in the State. Among them was Robert T. Stevens, of the J. P. Stevens Company, which operates a number of the nation's best-known textile plants. Two of these are located in Georgia, one at Milledgeville and one at Dublin, a woolen and a worsted mill. Mr. Stevens told his fellow-directors that he had found the Southern worker had a high productivity and was as quickly and easily trained as an employee anywhere else. He further said that he regarded his two operations in Georgia as among his most satisfactory from every viewpoint, including that of employee-employer relationship.

Another director who was urging upon his associates expansion into the South was Sidney J. Weinberg, of Goldman-Sachs Company. Mr. Weinberg also is a director of Sears-Roebuck and is familiar with its great program of expansion in the Southeast. He is acquainted, too, with the agricultural changes which are going on in the South, which release to potential manufacturers an increasingly large labor force.

There were other features of the meeting of the General Electric Board which offer unmistakable evidence that one reason for the visit to the South was to allow directors to have a first-hand look at a region in which the Company almost surely will consider establishment of new plants.

Robert W. Woodruff, a Director of General Electric, is acting as chief host in Georgia, ably assisted by the Georgia Power Company executives.

There Are Constructive Forces at Work

WASHINGTON—When things look discouraging, as they do now in the world, it is helpful—without being Pollyannish about it—to look at the constructive efforts being made for peace and to recognize the real vigor they possess despite all distractions.

More than ever is there reason redoubling those efforts through organized activity.

Cold war tension is perhaps at its peak as we observe this week the fifth anniversary of the opening of that meeting in San Francisco that created the United Nations.

The United Nations still is a going institution. It is doing lots of good throughout the world through various of its agencies, slowly spreading understanding and good will in many ways, even though it is handicapped in tackling some of the major dilemmas that confront the world because of the impasse between us and Russia.

This week, simultaneously, there are also observances up and down our land, for which Governors of States and Mayors of cities have issued proclamations, to campaign anew for the next step—for a world federal government with world law. This is the only way, in the end, to check the recurring violators of peace, the aggressors who seem to rise periodically through history, a manifestation of distorted human nature and greed for power that we probably always will have with us, human nature being what it is. Only a world government can bridle such power-hungry individuals and groups who mislead their own people. It will require an organized world society to cope with such, just as we learned long ago to cope with minor crops of them on a smaller scale in our communities.

The vigor of this movement in our nation is being exhibited this week in earnest by men and women who, in increasing numbers, gathered together in public meetings, including church meetings and other specially arranged functions, to rededicate themselves to peace under world law.

They turned aside from the disturbing news of the day to look hopefully forward and to intensify their activity before it is too late.

How effective these people have been—and there are millions of them supporting plans for strengthening union among nations of the world—is revealed in checking over achievements, which it is well to do at this time.

Pending in Congress are several proposals looking toward this objective which are publicly supported, in one form or another, by more than a third of the membership of House and Senate. Twenty-one State Legislatures have passed resolutions endorsing the idea of world federation, which shows the grass-roots pressure behind it. Five of these—Connecticut, Florida, Maine, New Jersey and North Carolina—have adopted resolutions asking Congress to call a convention to propose a constitutional amendment to "expedite and insure American participation in a world federal government open to all nations."

This shows that our people are not afraid of bold measures and, as usual, are ahead of some of their national leaders.

Supporters of the various proposals include persons from all walks of life and of all ranks, high and low—a great middle group. The noisy opposition is agitated by Communists on the extreme left and by groups of the extreme right, a familiar combination.

Nor is the world federation movement confined to this country. It is active and growing in strength all around the globe.

All of this has real meaning, which it is hopeful to consider now in the flood of depressing news. It shows that millions of people all over the world are thinking, speaking out for themselves, and working.

And Behind That Curtain?

But Industry Has Come to Stay

TOCCOA—Spring has homesteaded in Northeast Georgia. There is, to be sure, still an occasional nip in the night air, but no longer does frost make its recurring forays under cover of darkness. There will be a recess of hostilities until the battle of the seasons gets under way again in the Fall.

Through Lanier's hills of Habersham and in his valleys of Hall, the air is pervaded with the new confidence that comes of Spring. The same is true here in Stephens and in adjacent Banks and Franklin as well as near-by Hart.

But Spring isn't the only thing that's bursting out all over the corner of Georgia which sprawls form-fittingly against the fluid boundary of South Carolina and up hard against the rigid surveyor's line of Tennessee. There are other forces at work besides the annual revitalization of the season. Northeast Georgia is enjoying an economic metamorphosis as well as a scenic one.

In Toccoa and Clarkesville and Lavonia, in Hartwell and Royston and Elberton, things are stirring industrially. New plans, new plants, new pay rolls are in operation or the offing. And the spirit of growth and progress permeates the atmosphere as the Spring.

Drawn southward by reports of this industrial awakening, more and more of the nation's leading companies are making their own surveys and investigations. Some, as in the case of gigantic GE today, are even sending their entire boards of directors to look into the situation. Others are quietly dispatching parties of engineers and economists to report on the factors involved. All, in varying degrees, are interested. Nothing attracts new industry like the sight of other industry accumulating, lured by obvious advantages.

The truth of the matter is that Northeast Georgia is finally coming into its own, that the continuing expansion of hydroelectric power facilities in the area is at last enabling it to capitalize on the unparalleled physical and human resources of the region.

There is, not far from here on the road to Cornelia, a town by the name of New Switzerland.

The time may not be long in coming when the entire area will be a tribute to the foresight of the pioneer who gave New Switzerland its name.

With its own new spirit, industry, like Spring, has come to Northeast Georgia. But industry, unlike Spring, has undeniably come to stay.

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned. Address all letters to Editor Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Don't Neglect To Vote!

Editor Constitution: This is an open letter to the people of the State of Georgia:

We have an election coming up soon and I hope that everyone in the State of Georgia who is eligible will vote. This is a birthright and an obligation. If you intend to vote a certain way and then decide it's no use because "he hasn't a chance," or if you were going to vote the other way and decide "he will win without my vote," then you are robbing yourself of your right. If you do not vote you have no right to criticize the administration. Lots of Republicans stayed at home last general election because they were sure that Mr. Dewey was going to win. Well? I would like for everyone to vote as I do but since that would be asking too much I'll just ask everyone to vote—anyway you see fit—but vote!

Atlanta.
GEORGE L. DENNY.

No Conflict

Editor Constitution: Referring to your editorial comment on the passage of a bond issue for the construction of a consolidated school building for Negroes in Rockdale County on April 18, 1950, in which you erroneously indicated that there was a conflict in the County between the KKK and the passage of such bond issue, I beg to differ with you, and say that the editorial is resented here by many citizens, and myself, not affiliated with the KKK.

The fact, which you knew, of the vote being 93 percent of those voting in this county-wide election, indicated a minimum opposition and certainly no organized opposition of any source. The election was most orderly, as the voters simply and pleasantly went to the polls and almost unanimously voted to fill a moral and legal obligation to the colored people of Rockdale County.

We have been told that this is the first bond issue ever passed entirely for colored schools in Georgia.

It is a pleasure to live in Rockdale County, where nearly all of our citizens are ready to fill our obligations to our public and human needs.

Conyers.

Graham's Appeal

Editor Constitution: I have been reading with interest all the news items about Billy Graham and although I have not had the pleasure of hearing him, I have read many of his sermons and news interviews and would like to make the following comments:

Billy Graham's tour of American cities proves several things—some of the most obvious of these are the fact that Americans are hungry for a full meal of old-time religion; he proves that he is a wonderful preacher—a worker for the Lord—and that he stands head and shoulders above and over the present crop of ministers who are trying hard to keep the average churchgoer from being heavily burdened—with cash. The bell in the average church steeple has been replaced by the dollar mark. At board meetings, when members are spoken of as $25 members, or $100 members or "small-change members"—then its time to wonder whether God or Mammon is being worshipped!

The greatest threat to the American way of Christian living today is not the H-bomb but the utter indifference of the people—preachers and laymen alike—to the need of God—need for God—in our every-day affairs, in our homes, in our schools, yes—even in our churches.

Bainbridge.

Underpass for Pedestrians

Editor Constitution: I have noticed the traffic jam in the mornings and evenings. If our city engineers would take note of the people trying to cross the street at Five Points, at Marietta and Broad Streets, they would probably take this up with the City Council and put an underpass for people to walk under the traffic and not with the traffic. By doing this the City of Atlanta would save thousands of dollars for pedestrians.

Atlanta.
HOLDER MATHIS.

Why?

Editor Constitution: A deadline was supposed to be given on using 1949 motor vehicle license plates; then a "grace" period was given. A fourth of the year has passed, but if you will notice there are at least one-third of the cars still operating on the streets of Atlanta and over the State of Georgia who still have on 1949 tags.

Why is it that some people can get by the law without penalty, especially during ELECTION YEAR?

A TAXPAYER OF FULTON COUNTY.

Pendergast Gang

Editor Constitution: Not long ago the statement was made in an article on underworld gangster activities that it was not an impossibility that the underworld would some day have its "man" in the White House.

Offhand, just what would you call the Pendergast gang in Kansas City? It still seems quite a risk to oppose it.

Spring Soothes a Troubled City

WASHINGTON—Spring flows north in a gentle creeping tide of warmth and color, and life stirs in the land again. From the great gray buildings that house the government offices, the little gray people who work in them, shuffling papers and pushing pencils, hurry through their lunch in the big, noisy cafeterias, so that they will have time to walk in the sun for a moment before they go back to their desks and the long afternoon grind. Jonquils nod in vases on stenographers' desks, and it is time now for wearing pert hats with little flowers on them.

Spring flows back and brings with it a sense of undeniably joy, of mute well-being that is only half understood. There is a slowing down of the hammering hurry, the rush of living. Even in the great morning and afternoon traffic jams, that form at the approaches to the bridges leading over the river from Virginia to the city, there is little sign of winter's quick exasperation and raw nerves. The policeman's whistle has the brisk, clear, friendly note of a bird call, and when he waves you on he does not jerk his arm vigorously, glaring. He gives a languid gesture of the hand that is almost a friendly salutation.

On gray winter mornings or dark winter drunks when a cold rain is falling and people are eager to get home to warmth and soft light again, the cry of the horns in a traffic jam is harsh and irritable and constant. Now in the bright spring they just sit content to know a quiet moment when they can watch the shine of the sun on the slow-flowing river, and the graceful shadow patterns cast by the waving of the willows along the shore.

Even the grim, gray threat of war, felt with ever-increasing tension lately in this city which is, in essence, the capital of a frightened world, seems farther away and less frightening in these glad first days of spring.

Soon will come summer and the steamy, muggy heat that whets nerves raw and shortens tempers of Congressmen and civil servants alike. Right now, though, to many a winter-weary soul, the big thing is not Sen. McCarthy's latest fulmination. The big thing is that the grass is green and the sun shines bright, and fat robins, pompous as Congressmen, are strutting on the Mall.

FRED OTHMAN

The Lady With the Loaded Pistol

WASHINGTON—My tale today about the waiter putting his thumb in my shrimp soup has nothing much to do with national affairs; the wonder was he didn't pour it down my neck. So:

An old friend of the family, name of Virginia Kellogg, was passing through and I had lunch with her at one of those fancy places with shiny silver, flowers, and dignified waiters in claw-hammer coats.

Miss K., who used to be a newspaper reporter herself, was a handsome white-haired woman in a handsome gray-colored suit. She took a seat, spread her napkin on her lap, and just as the soup was arriving, snapped open her red leather purse. She extracted therefrom a small, blue-black revolver.

This she slapped down on the starched tablecloth beneath the eyes of the waiter with the shrimp bisque. He jumped. The soup splashed. He caught my cup with his trusty thumb inside and I've got to hand it to him. A man of steel nerve.

He ignored Miss Kellogg's small cannon, wiped the soup from his thumb, and served us as though artillery on the table was the usual thing. "Loaded!" I inquired.

"Of course," said Miss Kellogg. "I need it to protect myself."

"Why?" I asked. The waiter gulped. And you can't blame him for listening in.

"I'm working for Warner Brothers now," Miss K. replied.

I told her I supposed that was reason enough; after all, Warner's studio in Hollywood is a pretty rugged place. She blushed. She said that wasn't what she meant. She also said she'd called me in the hope that I'd write a piece about her current enterprise. She toyed with that pistol and I told her I'd be delighted. Just put her arsenal away.

It turned out that after I left Hollywood a few years back, Miss Kellogg quit newspapering to write for the movies. Only somehow she kept on being a reporter. She wrote one about a lady doctor, after getting a job as a lady doctor's assistant. She did another about drama in French dressmaking establishments; she went to Paris to get the dope. She paled around next with the U. S. Treasury agents for a film on catching counterfeiters. It was then that she felt the need of a six-shooter to jingle with the lipstick in her purse. So she got sworn in as a special officer on the Los Angeles police force. That makes her pistol legal.

She said maybe I'd noticed she was a little pale. She'd just been sprung from State's prison after serving a term as an embezzler. That was the Warner's idea. They said, casually, find out what it's like inside a women's prison and write a movie about it. Miss Kellogg had to pull a lot of wires to get herself sentenced, but before she was through she'd served terms in four different female penitentiaries. Then she wrote her film, titled "Caged." She's proud of it.

Women in prison, said she, spend all their time thinking about men. Life, in general, inside is no fun. In one prison she patronized, everybody had to be in bed at 6:30 p. m. when the lights went out. In another four of her fellow inmates had their hair clipped for infractions of the rules.

The waiter wondered (he'd got his voice back) what she'd like to drink. Milk, she said. Where she came from, she added, milk is known as Blue John. Standard lingo in all prisons. The waiter brought the milk. He also seemed relieved when we left.

GEORGIA EDITORS

On the County Unit Decision

(Brunswick News)

Georgia's infamous county unit system remains intact—and is likely to stay that way for some time to come.

It is now clear we have a jolting warning that the present State Administration and other advocates of the unit system are riding herd harder than ever. Certainly then this is no time for lying down.

If our voting procedure is as intolerable as many of us believe it to be, the remedy is one for a united Georgia citizenry to plan and fight for. If we are ever to rectify minority rule in this State, there must be increased registration and sustained, active interest in government on the part of every individual.

(Plemons County Progress)

The Progress has always opposed the county unit system of voting, but have always conceded that it was constitutional, so we are not surprised that the United States Supreme Court ruled last week that it was legal. The theory that there is a conflict between city and rural interests is wrong, because both must prosper if either does. Neither do we see where Georgia farmers fare any better than those of other States, and some country political rings are just as rotten as any in the cities. We have found honest people in all walks of life, city and country, and also dishonest ones. Honest people vote honest tickets wherever they are, and crooks are crooks anywhere you find them.

(Covington News)

The people most interested in this suit were disgruntled politicians. The large Atlanta dailies were also feeding the flames in their editorials regarding the county unit system.

Some of the country editors were also editorializing, disfavoring the county unit vote system, not realizing they were trying to disfranchise the people in their own county.

We admit, as we have heretofore, there are some inequalities in this system, as there are also some inequalities in the fact that New York with its millions of population has only two Senators, and New Mexico also has two Senators, although its population is only an approximate 600,000.

Don't be confused by many words. Reason for yourself the wisdom in giving every county in the State a voice in the State government instead of placing the power in the large cities. Such reasoning, after you have studied the Constitution of the United States, will bring clearly to your mind the thought our forefathers had when they decided that each State, regardless of the population, shall have equal representation with two Senators.

(Lanier County News)

The county unit system could easily be called Georgia's disgrace. It could retard the growth of the State for a century, and longer. We feel very sad about the county unit system, because the rural counties of the State are so wrong in their stand and in their attitude.

Why is it that the great States of Florida, Alabama, South and North Carolina are forging ahead of Georgia industrially? It is because Georgia through the county unit system and through other practices is discriminating against wealth and industry. Why is it that logically speaking a large industrial concern would choose Birmingham rather than Atlanta for its base of operations? One reason would be that Atlanta people are practically disfranchised through the operation of the county unit system. This is probably the reason why Jacksonville is developing so much faster industrially than is Savannah. Why should not the city of Brunswick with excellent but undeveloped port facilities be growing with the phenomenal speed as is Mobile, Ala? Gov. Talmadge in his comment about the Supreme Court decision about the county unit system stated that one of the good things about the county unit system is that it would eliminate the boss in politics. We wonder at the credulity of Georgia people in swallowing a misstatement of that kind. For years and years Georgia has been burdened down with political bosses and for many years this State has been burdened down with that infernal political institution which we call the county unit system.

(Adel News)

While there is some argument on the side of those who would like to see Georgia's voting franchise for all citizens more equal, there is overwhelming argument on the side of those who desire the county unit system to remain as it is. The big cities do not now, nor can they as long as the county unit system is in effect, control the politics of the State. The large city dailies would like the system changed, but it would never do. We will agree that Fulton County should be given another Representative in the General Assembly, and also another unit or two more votes. We will be fair enough to give them this break, but to change the system of voting to the popular vote rather than as we now have it would never be satisfactory in Georgia. It would permit the bigwigs in the cities to control the little man in the rural counties. It would bring to our State, we are afraid, such gangster leaders as Costello and others of the Capone type who would like to have a hand in our politics as they have in some other States.

(Albany Herald)

Not even the staunchest supporter of the Georgia county unit system has ever been so bold as to claim it was without flaws. The system is conceded to have been corrupted by political demagogues who have arisen in Georgia in the last three decades. But the framers of the law had in mind vesting the rural, predominantly agricultural areas of the State with authority to prevent big city political bosses from dictating the selections of State officials from Governor to appellate judges. Even though the system has been abused, its principle is not legally wrong and not without logic. The court apparently took these factors into consideration, as it would have had the election laws of Illinois been cited for test, for example. Cook County, which includes Chicago, has been subjected to distasteful and scandalous election episodes, ranging from bought bloc votes of minorities to ballot box stuffing. But the organic law behind the actual election processes could not be thrown out merely for lack of enforcement.

(Columbus Ledger)

Since the Court did not render its majority opinion on the fairness of the unit system, city dwellers still have the comfort of knowing that the system has not been upheld on moral grounds. This does little good, of course, in view of the coming elections, but at least we may prevent an extension of an unfair system—which vests power in rural supported political machines—by voting against the amendment in the general election next November.

Perhaps we may yet devise some means legislatively to overcome the handicap under which we now elect our governing officials.

(Marietta Journal)

The decision makes the system legal. It does not make it fair or to the best interests of the State.

We prefer to go along with Justice Douglas, who writes in his minority opinion:

"The discrimination against citizens in the more populous counties of Georgia is plain. Because they are city folk their voting power is only an eleventh or a hundred and twentieth of the voting power of other citizens. I can see no way to save that classification under the equal protection clause. The creation by law of favored groups of citizens and the grant to them of preferred political rights is the worst of all discriminations under a democratic system of government."

We regret the majority decision. The unit system has been and will now continue to be a retarding factor in Georgia's progress.

Will U. S. Force Reds To Pay?

WASHINGTON—American policy-forming officials are weighing the possibility of attaching Russian assets if Moscow persists in ignoring the Government's Baltic indemnity plea.

The State Department has taken the position that Russia should pay indemnities for the death of the 10 crewmen and the U. S. Navy Privateer which disappeared after encountering Soviet fighter planes in the Baltic Sea.

The Russian reply has rejected these demands and indicated that the Kremlin wouldn't even consider the American indemnity demand.

A department official says that the question of levying on any assets the Russians might have in this country always comes up in this type of matter. But he added there has been no decision on the question yet.

He pointed out that for one thing it is a highly complex legal question which would have to be explored fully by all policy-forming officials before an effective course of action can be mapped.

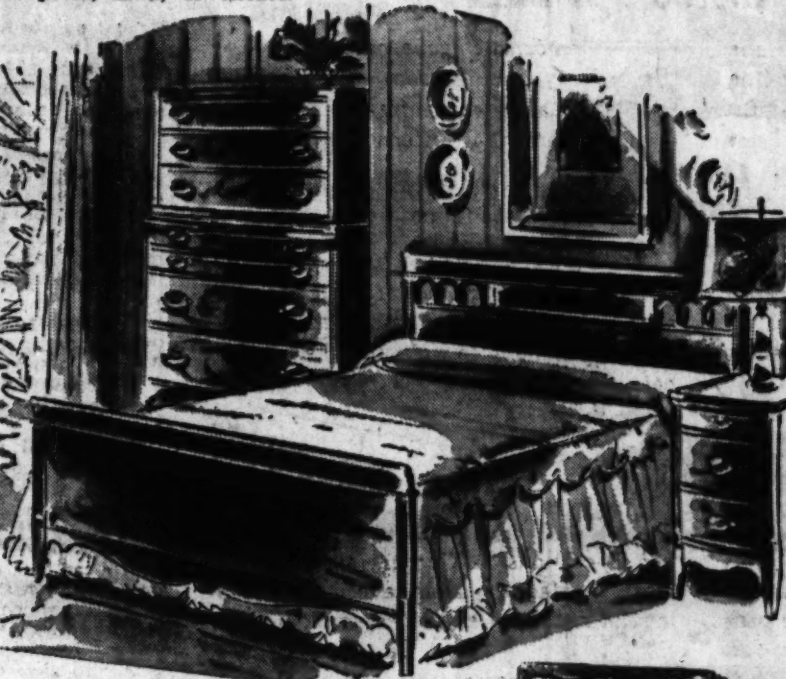

The Russians do have certain liquid assets here in connection with their current trade and commercial negotiations, he explained, but it has not yet been established juridically that these assets can be attached.

The impression now is that most of the Soviet assets are in the form of bank accounts and deposits. What real property the Russians have for their UN or diplomatic staffs either is leased or rented from private American owners.

FOR EGGLESTON

Van Leer Home To Be Included In Final Tour

The handsome home and gardens of Georgia Tech President, Col. Blake Van Leer, and Mrs. Van Leer have been added to the schedule for the Sixteenth Annual Eggleston Garden Tours tomorrow and Sunday.

Located at 292 Tenth St. on the Tech campus, it was erected two years ago.

Erected on a high hill overlooking the campus, the home is of white brick with columns in traditional design adapted to modern living. The interior furnishings are in keeping with the traditional period. Of special interest is a rare Persian rug and secretary, originally owned and used by Henry Clay. Other heirloom furnishings in the drawing room are from the Virginia home of Mrs. Van Leer's grandparents, the furniture having been shipped by way of Cape Horn in 1849 to San Francisco where the family lived at that time, later returning to Virginia.

Saturday and Sunday's tours, in addition to the Van Leer home and gardens, will feature the opening on both days of four other estates, the homes and gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Smith, 3655 Pace's Ferry Rd.; Mr. and Mrs. Ryburn G. Clay, 21 Cherokee Rd., where tea will be served; Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. White, Jr., 710 Fairfield Rd., and the formal gardens only at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Nunnally, 3656 Tuxedo Rd.

In addition, on Sunday only, two magnificent country estates, "Bailey's Gardens," owned by Mr. and Mrs. G. Tom Bailey, in Dunwoody, and "Mimosa Hall," ante bellum ancestral home of Mr. and Mrs. Granger Hansell in Roswell, will be opened to the many out-of-town visitors and Atlantans as a part of the State-wide Visiting Garden Tours, sponsored by the Garden Club of Georgia, in conjunction with the annual Eggleston Tours.

Visiting hours on Saturday are from 11:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m., and on Sunday from 2 until 5:30 p. m. Complete information and road maps will be available from the information booth maintained on tour days in the lobby of the Biltmore Hotel by the Eggleston Woman's Auxiliary, with Mrs. Charles Seiple as Chairman.

Dobbs-Justice Betrothal Told

WOODSTOCK—Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Dobbs announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Sue Dobbs, to Lester Joseph Justice, of Decatur, the marriage to take place in June. The bride-elect attended school here and is now employed by Liberty Mutual Insurance Company in Atlanta.

Mr. Justice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Justice, is a veteran of World War II. He served 36 months in the U. S. Navy as a radioman in the South Pacific and is now employed by General Motors.

Main emphasis will be on the State of Israel and the DP situation as he saw it. Moves taken on the tour will be shown to bring a living picture of life in Europe to the audience. Following his talk, Rabbi Rothschild will hold an open forum.

Officers will be installed and luncheon will be served at 12:30 p. m. The board meets at 11 a. m.

For reservations, call Mrs. Joseph Patterson, EX. 3910, or Mrs. Joseph Dechovitz, AT. 5685.

LET'S SEE NOW

Prayers Asked for BB Gun Victim

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

Constitution Associate Editor

Out at Grady Hospital they are hoping they can save the eyesight of little Betty Joan Brooks, 11, who was shot in the eye by a BB gun last Monday.

Betty Joan, a dark-eyed, dimpled little fourth-grader at Marion Smith School, is hoping so, too. She has been very ladylike about the whole thing.

Her mother, Mrs. Ronald J. Colwell, 1307 East Mercer, East Point, is praying they can save the eye, and she has asked the prayerful intercessions of others to that end.

"Ask them to pray for Betty Joan," she telephoned in a weary voice. "I am sure that is the only thing that will make her well again."

Doctors have performed one operation. They have learned that a type of cataract is forming on the injured eyeball and they will have to undertake additional surgery in a few weeks.

There is a deep moral for parents in this pathetic appeal of Mrs. Colwell's for prayer for the recovery of her pretty little daughter's eyesight.

BB guns should be outlawed, in residential sections. There is no such thing as a harmless, loaded gun in a thickly settled community, no matter how innocent may be the hands of the child wielding the weapon.

Admittedly, a boy and his BB gun are almost as natural as a boy and his dog to the eyes of a sentimental, overindulgent parent, but to the frantic grownups who see him cocking the gun and shooting it at random, they are a combination of horror.

BBs do not kill human beings, as many a stinging recollection can attest . . . they do not kill, that is, unless they happen to hit in a lethal spot. But they do deafen if they hit an eardrum; they do blind if they hit an eyeball, and they do frighten no matter where they strike.

MRS. COLWELL AND BETTY JOAN

They are torture instruments to pets, too often used as targets, and they ricochet from trees and stumps and bottles to hit childish bystanders.

It was exactly that type of accident that put Betty Joan Brooks in the hospital. Several 15-year-old boys were aiming at bottles in her back yard and one of the pellets bounced and hit her in the corner of the eye.

Children are neither responsible for their "accidents," nor to be criticized for pleading for possession of the guns in the first place. They are simply children pleading for thrilling new toys a little stronger than their water guns or their toy Buck Rogers pistols.

Their parents are responsible. I know one neighborhood where an accident with a BB gun sent the young culprit into the hands of a psychiatrist, so overcome was he with his load of guilt.

Without censure, the neighbors all agreed that all BB guns would be "out limits" to their young, and so it has been. The children protested at first, but the rule has held.

It takes character to say no to a persuasive child whose happiness is desired beyond all things.

But Mrs. Colwell believes it will take more than character to save the eyesight of her little daughter. It will take delicate surgery—and faith.

Today's Pattern

Pattern 4730 comes in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50. Size 36 takes 4 yards 30-inch. Send 25 cents in coins for this pattern to The Atlanta Constitution, Pattern Dept., P. O. Box 133, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address, zone, size, style number. Important announcement: Our new Summer Pattern Book is ready! Send 20 cents more, be first to have this collection of styles that make sewing a pleasure. Vacation clothes for all. Plus complete directions and diagrams on how to make two bath sarongs (for Mr. and Mrs.)

Mrs. Nina Black, Charles Black, Wed at Albany

ALBANY—Mrs. Nina Williamson Black and Charles H. Black, Sr., of Atlanta, were married at Radium Springs Inn, near here, Wednesday at 6 o'clock.

Dr. L. A. Stephens, pastor of the Albany First Baptist Church, officiated in the presence of members of the family and a few close friends.

Mrs. Black wore a becoming ensemble of chartruese. She carried a nosegay of white orchids.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rhorer entertained with a dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Black at Radium Springs Casino.

After spending several days at Radium Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Black will go to Florida and then to Nassau.

They will reside at 90 Peachtree Memorial Dr., Atlanta.

HECHTS PLAN MUSICAL

Austrian Consul and Mrs. Robert Hecht have issued invitations for a musical tomorrow evening at their home on Peachtree Battle Avenue at which time they will present Mistle Eder in a group of Old Viennese songs, in company with "The Atlanta All-Star Quartette."

The affair will aid the Austrian Children's Relief work and it is quite fitting that Miss Eder is a native of Vienna.

SOCIETY EVENTS

FRIDAY, APRIL 28

Cocktail party from 6 to 8 o'clock for Miss Nancy Jagels and James T. Starr by Mr. and Mrs. John Tyler and Burnet Heath.

Luncheon at 1 o'clock for Mrs. Scott Candler, Jr. by Mrs. C. A. Murphy.

Sigma Nu Frat Holds Conclave

Chapters of Sigma Nu Fraternity at Georgia Tech, University of Georgia, Emory University and Mercer will meet this weekend for their annual conclave at the chapter house on the Emory campus.

Highlighting the weekend will be the dance at 9 p. m. this evening at which the Atlanta Alumni Club will be host to active members. The ball will be held at the Greater Atlanta VFW Club on Ivey Street.

Among prominent alumni scheduled to attend are Chief Justice Jenkins, of the Georgia Supreme Court; Dr. James Paulin, L. W. (Chip) Roberts, and Coach Bobby Dodd.

Phi Gammas To Celebrate 102d Year

In celebration of the organization's one hundred and second year, Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity at Georgia Tech will hold a Founder's Day Ball this evening from 9 to 1 at the American Legion Post 72.

Highlighting the affair will be the election of the fraternity queen and her two attendants, a custom initiated this year.

Competing for the title are Misses Betty Patterson, Ann Wade, Carol Carson, Marilyn Wade, Patsy Oliver, Nancy Camp, Margie Teal, Eleanor Crawford and Miss Martha Uphaw, of Miami.

The dance, which will be followed by a breakfast, will be chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Creighton and Prof. and Mrs. F. C. Bragg.

Saturday the pledge and active members of the frat will vie in a softball game and that evening the brothers will entertain their dates at a buffet supper at 6:30 p. m., after which they will attend the Engineer's Ball.

Sunday the alumni will be honor guests at an open house.

Cooked snap beans are delicious added to a shrimp curry and they make main course serve easy. Serve with hot steamed rice and a good fruit chutney of apple or pineapple.

Use Day-Old Bread

In making sandwiches it's always best to use day-old bread; but if this is impossible, chill fresh bread in the refrigerator before using. There's one exception to this rule — rolled sandwiches require very fresh bread; otherwise they will break in rolling.

Where Is Old-Time Opera Spirit?

"Yes," said Julius Gaines, the major-domo at the Piedmont Driving Club around 3:30 a. m. yesterday morning, "today's opera singers have beautiful voices, but it was the old-timers, like Caruso, Farrar, Scotti and Madame Schumann-Heink who really gave the spirit to the opera supper parties."

The old-timers entered into the spirit of the parties—they sang and sang and sang. They put on what today would be called "an off-the-record" performance. That tall hand-some singer to night, Jerome Hines, seemed to have that old quality. He really entered into the fun. He and Mr. Robert Merrill certainly made a hit singing their duet, especially when the crowd joined in. It took the back to the old times and the opera parties that lasted on and on into the morning. Why, sometimes it was 4 or 5 a. m. before the last guest left.

Julius Gaines was speaking from experience, too, for he served his first Driving Club party—always ranked as a top-flight affair on the opera program—in 1916 when Caruso really "put on a show" and actually "sang for his supper." And, says Julius, "nowadays there is less opera spirit from the artists. It would be interesting to find out why."

But what lacked in spirit and frivolity from the stars was more than made up by the 478 guests who were served a buffet supper following the performance of "Rigoletto," which climaxed the opera season.

So here's some champagne capsules of another big night at the Driving Club.

Pretty Patricia Munsel "visiting" around the main table under the protective guidance of Errol Hay, Jr., Price Gilbert, Jr., at whose request Jean Madiera sang an encore. . . . James Dunlap, club President, serving as official host and offering to the Broadway, Baa, Baa, Baa! What if the chorus says it won't sing. What if the orchestra strikes next Spring. That's a problem for Mr. Bing, Baa, Baa, Baa!

The audience of supper diners joined in the chorus much in the same style as the movie audiences in the singing programs. . . . And to wind up his part—which was THE part of the opera program—Hines sang "Ole Man River," announcing that it would be for the "last time in Atlanta, and that's true."

And it was, too, for about that time the Met stage manager, Desire Defere, turned train call and the stars scooted out to take the train for Memphis for "La Boheme," scheduled for last night.

But the Atlantans? Oh, they stayed on until the "trimmings," hours for it was a Driving Club party with all the "trimmings," which is enough said.

Newcomers Find City 'Congenial All 'Round'

By BETSY HOPKINS

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce would do well to hire newcomers Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Ferguson, Jr., as their spokesmen.

This couple, who have been in Atlanta only a few days, are already devoted to "The long Springtime, the dogwood, and that certain something that makes Atlanta more congenial all the way around."

Moving here from New York, with their young daughters, Elaine Beverly and Denise Irene, the Fergusons adopted Atlanta as their home "just because we like it here."

The couple, who are living at 4280 Twin Brooks Rd., N. W., already have strong ties in the city. Ferguson's relatives, on his mother's side, live between Atlanta and Toccoa, and he spends two weeks out of every year here, usually as the guest of his grandfather, Clarence Mason.

Son of J. B. Ferguson, Irish automobile inventor, and nephew of Harry Ferguson, manufacturer of the Ferguson tractor, Ferguson is associated with Jack Briscoe, Inc., and is also on the board of directors of Crestlawn Memorial Park, where he holds the office of treasurer.

Conventionaires in Transit

Other attractive newcomers to Atlanta are Mr. and Mrs. Emory S. Baldwin, who have moved from Dublin to Decatur, where they have taken a house at 3304 Patrick St.

Mr. Baldwin is recently retired after serving as clerk of Laurens County for 30 years. With them is their daughter, Miss Grace Baldwin, and their sons, Eugene, John and Timmie Baldwin.

With conventions in season, and several leading national organizations either convening or adjourning, this week finds many Atlantans in transit. Mrs. Hill Robertson, West Wesley Road, just returned from the National DAR Congress in Washington, is now in Atlantic City for a social welfare conference. . . . Mrs. William M. Carmichael has returned from Washington, D. C., where she attended the National DAR Conference. . . . The State PTA convention has drawn Mrs. Thorne Winter, 211 Terrace Dr., and Mrs. Kirk Dorabush, 4465 Mabry Rd., to Savannah. . . . Just returned from a church conference in Chattanooga are Dr. and Mrs. Herman L. Turner, Ray Inglett, Sr., Ray Inglett, Jr., James T. Turner and Sgt. H. L. Ellis, who were representatives of the Covenant Presbyterian Church. . . . Dr. C. Purcell Roberts, 762 Cypress St., has returned from Boston, Mass., where he attended the meeting of the American College of Physicians and was made a Fellow of the College.

Here and There

Among paripet Atlantans are Mrs. James J. Doran and Cindy and Dennis Doran, 3377 Nancy's Creek Rd., who for a month have been enjoying the wonders of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Miss Pat Doran, who attends Harcum Junior College, spent two weeks with them at the beach, but will depart today for New Haven, Conn., where she will attend the Derby Day weekend at Yale University as the guest of Bill Tobin, of Akron, Ohio. The Dorans return to Atlanta Monday. . . . After a visit with relatives in Buchanan, W. Va., Mrs. Nettie Ferguson has returned to her home at 118 Adams St., Decatur. . . . Miss Olive Fox has returned to her home in Darien after attending the opera "Faust" here Wednesday. . . . Just returned from Havana, Cuba (which she pronounces Habana, like a true native), is Miss Mary Cassels Carson, 819 Juniper St. Also on her itinerary were visits to Charleston, S. C., Miami and Coral Gables, where she visited relatives. . . . Mrs. Henry I. Mobley, Jr., and son, Henry, III, have departed for Johnson City, Tenn., where they are visiting the former's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Penn W. Worden, Jr. . . . Mrs. Eugene Jackson, of Richmond, Va., is the guest of Mrs. Alfred Branch, Jr., in Decatur. . . . After a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Slater, on Brookhaven Drive, Mrs. Alf Maxwell has returned to her home in Salem, Va.

Miss Bernadac And Mr. Rich To Wed in Paris

Atlantans will learn with interest of the betrothal of John D. Rich, son of Mrs. Lester J. Rich and the late Mr. Rich, of New York, and the grandson of the late Daniel Rich, of Atlanta, to Miss Jacqueline D. Bernadac, of Chappaqua, N. Y.

The marriage will take place on Saturday in Paris, France, with the Mayor of Neuilly performing the civil service, to be followed by a religious service at St. Joseph's English Church of Paris.

Miss Bernadac is the daughter of Mrs. Stanley Jacques Halle, of Chappaqua, N. Y., and of Henri Bernadac, of Paris. She was graduated from Miss Hewitt's Classes in New York, and was presented to society in 1948. She is the granddaughter of Countess Philippine Henri Jules DeMilly, of Chappaqua, and the late Count DeMilly.

Mr. Rich was graduated from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania. He is now with the Economic Cooperation Administration in Paris.

Your Stars Today

WHAT TO EXPECT TODAY Sun in Taurus

General Tendencies—Try to get through today without breaking up any close friendship—you will feel like calling somebody names, but often this practice is wasted energy. I know all about this because I am so often tempted to do it myself. Probably much of your displeasure is caused by the fact that things are not going fast enough to suit you, but wait until the first week of next month and you will have very little of this to worry about—may even have to hustle yourself.

If It's Your Birthday—Much emphasis is placed upon emotional considerations in the events of the next year for you. You may twist this into disagreements, but you may equally well create new friendships for yourself while at the same time parting peacefully from people whom you may have outgrown. Sometimes it's not easy to remain on good terms with old friends; this is no one's fault but merely the fact that two people have developed in different ways.

Kappa Deltas Plan Athens House Party

Girls from various parts of Georgia who expect to attend the University of Georgia in the Fall will gather as guests of Kappa Delta Sorority at a house party this weekend in Athens. A swimming party and picnic supper have been planned for tomorrow afternoon, with a dance at the chapter house to-morrow evening.

Pork, Eggs And Carrots Are Plentiful

Pork, carrots and eggs will grace Southern dinner tables in increased quantity in May, if abundance is a guide to eating habits, the U. S. Department of Agriculture says in releasing its plentiful foods list for the South-east.

These three items are singled out by USDA as extra good buys among the 22 foods rated plentiful for May.

Pork, a repeater since its first appearance on the list in October, will come partly from mark-ings of the Spring pig crop.

May carrot supplies are shipped into Southeastern markets mostly from California and Arizona. The Arizona carrot crop is reported 12 percent larger than last year, and down in the rich Imperial Valley of California, the crop is growing to record size.

Farmers have more laying hens this year than in 1949, and egg production has been consistently larger for the past five or six months than last season.

In addition to eggs, broilers, fryers and hens represent poultry products on the May plentiful foods list.

Dairy products, fish, dry beans, dry peas, peanut butter, honey, cooking fats, raisins, prunes, and canned peach supplies are abundant and shoppers will be wise to check prices of these foods against those of less plentiful items.

In the vegetable bins, buyers will find abundant supplies of cabbage, onions, Irish potatoes, and lettuce, as well as carrots. Canned items on the May plentiful list are canned corn and canned lima beans.

WITH NOODLES Well Seasoned Meat Balls

Hamburger can be just that or it can be the starting point for some excellent meat dishes. One such dish is a mixture of ground beef mixed with cereal flakes, egg, spicy seasonings, and raisins! Try these meat balls, serve with buttered fine noodles.

ROMANIAN MEAT BALLS
1 pound ground beef
2 tablespoons minced onions
2 cups corn flakes
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoon paprika
½ cup water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup raisins
1 tablespoon sugar

Combine ground beef, onions, corn flakes, egg, salt, pepper, and paprika; mix well. Shape into 8 meat balls. Brown meat balls in hot fat; add water, lemon juice, raisins and sugar; cover and cook over low heat 15 minutes, or until thoroughly cooked. Serve meat balls with raisin sauce. Four servings (two meat balls each).

Easy Baked Mocha Pudding

Aren't desserts fun? They're so attractive and so good tasting few of us mind making them.

Here is an easy dessert to put together and needs only a half hour to bake. You'll like the flavor blend of chocolate, brown sugar and coffee also.

MOCHA PUDDING
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 ounce unsweetened chocolate, melted
2 tablespoons butter, melted
Topping:
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup white sugar
2 tablespoons cocoa
1 cup cold strong coffee

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Add milk and vanilla. Add chocolate and butter and stir until smooth. Pour into a greased pan about 6x10 inches. Mix brown sugar, granulated sugar and cocoa together and sprinkle over batter. Pour coffee over top gently. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 30 minutes. Batter will be bubbly when removed from oven and a sauce will form in bottom of pan. Cool. Serve topped with chocolate sauce from pan. May be topped with whipped cream if desired. Eight servings.

Bacon Topping For Vegetable

Tune in on added flavor by topping your vegetable dishes with a tangy bacon dressing. Brown bacon lightly in a skillet over low heat. Drain off some of the fat. Add chopped onion and cook until tender. Add a bit of brown sugar and equal parts of vinegar and water along with salt and pepper to taste. Simmer for five minutes. Serve over hot vegetables such as green beans, spinach and carrots or use in making a hot potato salad.

Bananas Known As Food Fruit

The banana is such a delicious fruit that few think of its nutrition. They just enjoy it. But there is an excellent nutrition story to the banana that makes mothers glad their children ask so often for this fruit. So rich in food values is the banana that it is known to the experts as the food fruit. Bananas earn that title because they have vitamins A, the B group and C; 11 essential minerals including calcium, phosphorus and iron; and food energy. These fruits belong to the protective group of foods, valued for their help in maintaining all round good health.

RIPENESS OF BANANAS INDICATED BY PEEL

Do you know how to detect a fully ripe banana? The peel is yellow flecked with brown, indicating fruit that has reached peak of sweetness, flavor and digestibility. If the bananas at the store have all yellow peel or are slightly green tipped, these bananas will ripen readily at home. The secret is to leave them at room temperature until the brown flecks give the signal of full ripeness. Don't put these bananas in the refrigerator as a low temperature arrests the banana's ripening process and impairs the delicate flavor.

There are three to four average-sized bananas to a pound. The banana shape lends itself to attractive arrangements in salads, fruit cups and desserts. A delightful way of serving the banana is in fluted slices. To achieve this dainty scalloped edge, peel a whole banana and with a fork, score the banana lengthwise on all sides. Then slice and the banana will have the fluid edging.

To prevent bananas from turning dark when preparing a salad, slice as close to serving time as possible. If cut 1 to 2 hours in advance of serving, dip slices into, or sprinkle them with canned pineapple juice, or fresh or canned grapefruit, orange, lemon or lime juice.

Spicy Peaches Go With Meat

Spicy fruits are always delicious, meat accompaniments and these spicy peach slices are exceptionally good. Simply heat wine vinegar, brown sugar and spices. Add a can of cling peach slices and simmer a few minutes. Chill before you serve them.

SPICY PEACH SLICES
2½ cups canned cling peach slices
½ cup wine vinegar
½ cup brown sugar (packed)
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Thinly sliced lemon
Drain peaches. Combine vinegar, sugar, spices and lemon. Simmer five minutes. Add peach slices and simmer 5 minutes longer. Chill before serving. Makes about 1½ pints.

Use fresh pineapple shells in which to serve a dessert of cut-up fruit. The shells are attractive and will save washing a bowl. To make them spit the pineapple down the center lengthwise, cutting right through the green leaves. Scoop out the pineapple meat, turn some of it with other varieties of fruit, and refill the shells.

Crisp Sandwiches
Lettuce, other salad greens and tomatoes tend to lose their crispness if used in sandwiches which are stored for any length of time. To avoid this, wrap lettuce or greens separately so that they will remain crisp and then add to sandwiches just before serving.

A Noble breakfast!

Good for lunch and dinner too!

Broiled Crabmeat Sandwiches

Broiled crabmeat sandwiches are suggested for Sunday supper. They take little time to prepare yet are wonderfully rich and filling. This is a good recipe to file away for those times when friends drop in—that is if your cupboard is stocked with a can or two of crabmeat and some process cheese.

BROILED CRABMEAT SANDWICHES

1/2 pound process cheese
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 egg yolk, beaten
8 ounces can crabmeat, flaked
8 hamburger buns.

Melt cheese and butter in top of double boiler. Add Worcestershire sauce and egg yolk. Add flaked crabmeat and mix thoroughly. Spread on half round of bun and place under broiler until slightly melted and heated through. Six servings.

APPLE AND CHEESE SALAD TRAY—For variety, arrange a salad and cracker tray of slices of tart apple (or pears) put together with cottage cheese or any cheese spread. Place the salads in lettuce cups for easy service and garnish with watercress. Let the family help themselves to salad, French dressing and crisp crackers. A salad tray like this may be served as the first course or dessert course.

NATIONAL BABY WEEK

Give Junior His Just Dessert

We dedicate the week from April 26 to May 6 as National Baby Week (it's noise abatement week, too), and we salute a younger generation that is better fed than at any time in history.

As a result of strides made in recent years in the processing of food prepared especially for infants, there now is definite proof that more babies than ever before are getting the well balanced, complete diets so necessary for their proper growth and development.

Both the babies and the mothers have wholeheartedly endorsed the scientific efforts of the baby food industry by preferring commercially strained and junior foods to such home-prepared foods. Wisely so, because it has been proven through special impartial studies that strained foods may be purchased more cheaply as a commercial product. The skilled scientists of food manufacturers have perfected these baby foods so that today they are far more nutritious than those that mothers would struggle to prepare themselves.

Give Junior his just dessert

—right out of a can. With the addition of only a few simple ingredients you can make a child's as well as a grownups dessert.

JEFFY APPLE BETTY

1 cup pre-cooked cereal food or pre-cooked oatmeal.
1/2 cup butter.
4 medium cooking apples.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
3/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed.
1/2 cup hot water.

Brown cereal lightly in butter. Pare, core, and slice apples. Add lemon juice, brown sugar and cereal to apples. Arrange in a buttered, shallow baking dish. Pour hot water over this. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) 30 minutes or until apples are done. 3 to 4 servings.

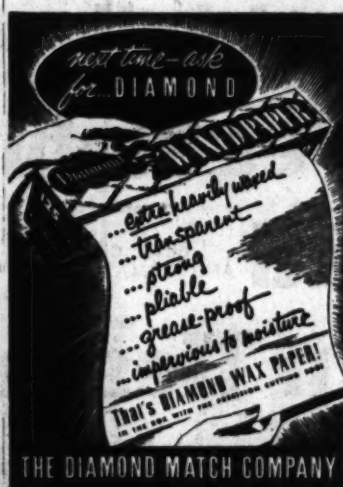

PLUM SHERBET

2 1/2 ounces cans strained plums with tapioca.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
1/2 cup sugar.
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Set refrigerator control at coldest setting. Blend plums with tapioca, lemon juice and sugar. Fold in egg whites and pour into freezer tray or individual paper cups. Freeze partially, beat with fork or spoon, then continue freezing until firm.

Beef Sandwiches

April days call for treating the family to a satisfying lunch of hot roast beef sandwiches. They are easy to prepare, thrifty and tasty too. Simply arrange cuts of hot, left-over roast beef between slices of enriched bread, and cover with gravy. Hot roast beef sandwiches are high in nutritive value so necessary to growing youngsters, and working adults. Serve these tasty hot sandwiches with crisp carrot sticks, stuffed celery hearts, cabbage slaw or your favorite fruit salad.

PLASTIC FROG Holds flowers at any angle

IT'S NEW FOR YOU

Better Living Aids Please Entire Family

Two of the new products this week are household beauty aids as well as very practical "things."

All members of the family will enjoy the beautiful flower arrangements which can be made more easily with a new flower holder molded of crystal clear Lustrex styrene. The decorative plastic "frog" is designed to fit any type container and to hold flowers at any angle desired. The holders are available at Rich's.

Television fans who can't bear to leave the "movies" long enough to go to the table to eat will be glad to know there's a solution to the problem. Serr-Arm Chair Trays that grip the arm of any upholstered chair or divan will firmly hold plates of food, drinks or ashtrays. They eliminate lap service and moving of tables. They're not affected by heat, alcohol or household chemicals. The spring-supported arms fold in so they can be easily stored. They're available in red, green, yellow, ivory or blue at Davison's.

Stuff Potatoes Surprise

For some reason baked potatoes always seem like something special. Guess that is why we are so partial to them when stuffed and topped with tiny sausages and grated cheese. Serve this main dish with a buttered vegetable, grapefruit salad and any dessert.

STUFFED POTATOES SURPRISE

8 medium baking potatoes
1 pound small link sausages
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
About 1/2 cup hot milk
1/2 cup grated sharp cheese (1 oz.)

Scrub potatoes thoroughly, dry; bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) until soft, about 40 minutes. Fry the sausages until nicely browned. Drain on absorbent paper and cut into one-fourth inch slices. When potatoes are done, cut in half lengthwise and scoop out the potato; add butter and salt and mash. Add milk to give the moistness desired and beat until smooth and fluffy. Stir in the sausage. Fill the potato shells with potato mixture; sprinkle grated cheese over the top. Place in oven until cheese is a golden brown; serve at once. Six servings.

Tomato Cups

Make the most of the garden-freshness of tomatoes by serving them often in a variety of ways. They make wonderful containers for hearty macaroni salad. You may want to scoop out the center and mix the pulp with the other salad ingredients. Or you may like to remove only the stem end then cut the tomato in sections, but not through the bottom. Then spread the sections apart and heap the salad in the center. Serve the salad with hot buttered asparagus and toasted enriched hard rolls with butter or margarine.

Slices of raisin bread, buttered or spread with cream cheese is quick and easy to serve with hot tea to afternoon visitors.

INDIVIDUAL STUFFED MEAT ROLLS

These Can Be Made the Night Before and Kept in the Refrigerator Until Time to Bake Them

Meals Fashioned for Spring Give Extra Gardening Time

By AGNES REASOR OLMSTEAD
Constitution Home Economics Editor

Suddenly it's Spring! The garden and yard are seeking your attention. On these days, when you start early and work 'til near dinner time, you will want to plan simple and satisfying menus.

When it comes to selecting a fresh meat, which is versatile as well as economical, ground beef tops the list. With beef at its very best this season of the year, you'll be sure to get quality ground beef. The thrifter chick, like chick and round of beef, are used in making ground beef—so menus planned around this choice bring blessings to the budget as well as to the menu.

For a meal which will let you stay out-of-doors until a few minutes before dinner is to be served, with just one trip to the kitchen to bake that main dish, try: individual stuffed meat rolls, green beans, celery curls, buttered French bread and ice cream with pineapple sauce. Make the meat rolls the night before and refrigerate them until time to pop them into the oven for baking. Wise planning and short cuts will give you more time to enjoy the glorious springtime.

INDIVIDUAL STUFFED MEAT ROLLS

Meat Mixture:
1/2 pound ground beef
1/2 pound ground pork
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup tomato sauce
1/2 cup ketchup
1/2 cup Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup soybean oil
1/2 cup melted butter
1/2 cup tomato paste
1/2 cup beef extract dissolved in water

Lightly mix the ground beef and pork with the milk, green pepper, onion, salt and pepper. Divide into 6-8 equal portions. Lay one portion at a time on a square of wax paper and flatten into square shape about 1/2-inch thick. Combine bread, butter, salt, pepper and diluted meat extract for stuffing. Place a portion of mixture down center of each meat square. Lift wax paper and meat together and fold over dressing, pressing meat edges together. Pull back wax paper and press ends of meat roll together. Place in shallow baking pan. Make rest of rolls same way. Pour tomato soup over the top and bake 45 minutes or until done in 350 degree oven. 6 to 8 rolls.

OTHER IDEAS

For other ground beef quickies, wrap seasoned ground beef patties with bacon and brush with barbecue sauce or catsup. Broil about 3 inches from heat and 5 minutes per side. Here's a good Saturday night supper idea: Brown meat balls, then add tomato or mushroom soup and a little grated onion and simmer covered for about 20 minutes. Serve in ring of fluffy rice with a garden fresh salad, hard rolls and a refrigerator dessert. You have a menu which is easy from start to finish.

Coconut Cream Strawberry Pie

First you bake a pie shell. Then you make a coconut cream filling. Next you line the pie crust with strawberries, and pour the cream filling over them. As a final, luscious embellishment, you crown the pie with a fluffy meringue frosting, also containing coconut. Garnish with a few berries, and there you are! You have created a pie that will bring whistles.

1 baked nine-inch pie shell
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup shredded coconut, cut if desired
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons vanilla
1 pint strawberries, cut in halves
1/2 cup sugar
2 egg whites, unbeaten
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon water
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup shredded coconut
Combine sugar, flour, and salt for filling, in the top of a double boiler; add milk gradually, stirring until smooth. Add 1 cup coconut. Cook over rapidly boiling water 15 minutes, stirring constantly. Mix small amount of mixture with egg yolks, return to double boiler, and cook 2 minutes longer. Remove from heat. Add vanilla and butter. Cool. Place 1 cup strawberries in pie shell; then add filling. Six servings.

To make topping: Place egg whites, sugar, salt, and water in top of double boiler; at with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water and beat one minute; then remove from heat and continue beating two minutes, or until mixture will stand in peaks. Add vanilla. Pile lightly on filling. Sprinkle with coconut and garnish with additional strawberries. Serve at once.

LEFTOVER PORK IN TEMPTING SALAD

After the pleasure of eating hot roast pork the first night and cold sliced pork the next, comes the problem of using the leftovers which often must be cut from the bone in small chunks. A pork and apple salad for lunch or Sunday night supper is a fine solution. Combine equal quantities of diced leftover pork and diced unpeeled apples. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper and a little lemon juice. Blend ingredients with mayonnaise, using just enough to moisten slightly.

For a salad luncheon serve peach halves and cottage cheese on a bed of watercress or salad green. Accompany the salad with sour cream or French dressing.

Walton Calls Union Meeting

Following adjournment until 1:30 p. m. today of negotiations between the Georgia Power Company and its transit workers union for a new contract, Jesse Walton, head of the Union, yesterday issued a call for a Union meeting at 2 a. m. Sunday. The present contract expires at midnight Sunday. Walton said he would announce the place of the Union meeting today and that he was holding it at 2 a. m. in order to permit all members of the Union to attend the one meeting. Neither the Company nor the Union would reveal details of the current negotiations, but Robert W. Donnan, Federal Conciliation Commissioner, said he was hopeful of an agreement which would postpone or prevent a strike.

Kudzu Returns To Yellow River

FRIDAY, APRIL 28, 1950

Suggestion of the day: This is the day of the Pine Tree Festival at Swainsboro. Nothing is deserving of more recognition than the old pine tree. It will keep us rich if we treat it right.

BUT HE ISN'T HAVING ANY FUN

Well, our old friend Kudzu came back to Yellow River recently for a brief visit, but he doesn't like it as well as he did when he was a puppy. He hated to leave then but he's anxious to leave now.

Kudzu is the son of Purty, who took up with us and lived under our house for some years and until recently when we got her a better home. Kudzu's puppy is said to be a traveling man.

Certainly he was traveling at a good clip when last we saw him with Jock right in behind him and threatening to do him in if he'd just stand up and fight like a man. But the stranger realized he was a stranger and didn't care to engage in combat on the challenger's home lot. You can't hate a fellow for that.

Well, Kudzu came back for a brief visit while his folks were absent on urgent and dolorous business, and we have been trying to make his stay a pleasant one. Unfortunately, it isn't working out very well and Kudzu isn't having fun. First off, he is precisely the wrong age. He is not quite a man but yet he is more than a puppy. He looks and smells like a grown-up. Then, too, he is a male. Moreover, he is playful, big-footed, and unused to the ways of the world. Does he discover Jock eating away pleasantly at his dinner, he thinks it great fun to poke his head in the pan to investigate. This doesn't work out very well for him.

Does someone leave a pair of nylons around the house? Master Kudzu thinks they were left for his pleasure. Is he by chance left alone in the room, he reports himself by digging for bones within the cushions of the settee. Does Old Missie desire a nap, Kudzu's idea is to entertain her with vocal music.

Do you remember the school-room story of the fox and the grapes and the peck of corn? The farmer tries to get them across the river in a boat too small to hold them all. If he leaves the fox with the grapes there will be tragedy. If he leaves the goose with the corn there will be glutony and then famine. What to do?

Well, that's the way it is with our friend Kudzu. We like him very much, but we wish he were a female and about six months younger. Perhaps then we could get some rest.

CANDID CAMERAMAN
BROAD AND ALABAMA

HERE'S HOW YOU LOOK LEAVING A BUS—These Atlantans were caught as they stepped from Hapeville and College Park buses at the corner of Broad and Alabama Streets yesterday. None was aware the candid cameraman was snooping around. Two tickets to the Fox Theater to see "Captain Carey, U. S. A." will be awarded each person in above photo who identifies himself to Anne Cain in the newsroom of The Constitution. Bring this copy of the paper along for identification purposes.

MOVIE REVIEWS

'Under My Skin' Pulsating European-Made Movie

By PAUL JONES

Since the Europeans insisted several months ago on tying up American movie coin, several enterprising producers have taken camera crews, stars and stories to the continent for filming. Some exceptional photo plays have resulted and the Hollywood flicker factories have recouped some of their gold. The latest European-made movie of any consequence is "Under My Skin," a skillfully edited drama, which stars John Garfield and which opened at the Paramount yesterday.

"Under My Skin" is not an altogether impressive title. But the Ernest Hemingway story about horse race chicanery in France and in Italy is every inch a pulsating drama which focuses camera attention on a lovely newcomer, Micheline Prele, who is given top-drawer assistance by Garfield and other members of the cast. Garfield, playing the part of an ex-jockey and race "fixer" gives a two-fisted portrayal all the old Garfield ruggedness which has made him a box office favorite. Good photography, a good script and authentic background shots polish it up somewhat.

'Captain Carey, U.S.A.' At Fox Theater

"Captain Carey, U. S. A." is a rousing flag-waving title that fails to materialize to any great degree in the current attraction at the Fox Theater and it looks like Alan Ladd is going to leap over a hurdle if he hopes to maintain his box-office standing in his next movie. Martha Albrand wrote the novel from which the movie was adapted. She told the story about a member of the OSS who returning to Italy after the war, sought to befriend a girl who had aided him during the war. A series of fatal knifings and a maze of intriguing situations follow. The play missed somewhere along the route. Maybe it was due to Mitchell Leisen's direction. It is apt to fulfill Ladd's fans desires for fast-paced melodrama.

'51 Opera Dates Seen at Easter

Atlanta's 1951 opera season may come on the three days immediately following next Easter Sunday. That possibility looms, following disclosure here that Metropolitan Opera Company officials "would like to schedule Atlanta immediately after their Holy Week music in New York City. Final arrangements will be made in the Fall.

While local sponsors and Met officials held a private session discussing possible 1951 dates, it was stressed that no definite plans will be made until Fall. Consensus is that the usual offering of four operas in three days will be repeated next Spring.

The bidding has proceeded:

Pass	Pass	Pass	Rdbl.

Opening lead: five of clubs.

It is not my practice to devote any great amount of time and space to the subject of psychic bids. Whatever dramatic value they may have, their practical advantages have been grossly exaggerated. In today's hand, we are concerned with a bit of crime detection rather than a study of the crime itself.

West, for reasons best known to himself, opened with one heart. Perhaps, it was his purpose to talk the opposition out of the contract in which he believed they had the best chance for game. His tactics boomeranged in a most unexpected manner and for the time being, at least, left him with the impression that crime does not pay.

East responded with one spade and West passed, awaiting developments. North stepped into the breach with a double. East raised to two hearts and now South, considering that it was high time that he joined the festivities, entered with a bid of two no trump which North raised to three.

In the unfounded belief that the opposition had been completely led astray, and in the hope that the club suit could be brought in with the loss of only one trick, West doubled. North's redouble with a partner who had previously passed, was the act of one who was feeling his oats.

When the club was opened and dummy appeared, the psychic character of West's opening bid was exposed. However, that knowledge brought little comfort to declarer. If his foot should slip, control of the hand would be lost, for the fatal diamond shift was sure to come.

On that analysis it would seem that the fate of the contract hinged on bringing the heart suit home without loss. East's raise made it evident that any length in the heart suit lay with him rather than West who had originally bid the suit, so that a normal finesse up to dummy's jack should be given no consideration.

Declarer, therefore, carefully played the club jack in dummy in the hope of winning the trick there. He forthwith returned the heart jack and when East didn't cover he played low. When West's 10 fell on the jack, South successfully finessed the seven spot on the second round of the suit. The ace and king picked up East's queen and South made three no trumps redoubled with an over-trick.

Declarer's analysis was completely sound and his technique faultless. That the bulk of the outstanding hearts were in East's hand could not be doubted, and there was no great likelihood that West would show up with the queen. It was far more probable that West had a singleton heart.

To guard against such holding, declarer had to play with care. If he fell into error of cashing the king first, he would be unable to pick up the queen. The first round finesse of the jack was mandatory in the hope that West held the singleton 10.

West in an effort to confuse the issue had "tipped his mitt."
